

Shutdown continues as solution is sought

Trucking talks resume

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The independent truckers' shutdown spread over more than three-fourths of the nation today, prompting more layoffs and bringing new reports of violence.

An independent driver manning a blockade near Wilmington, N.C., was shot in the stomach and seriously wounded early today, police said. It was one of the few reports of injury stemming from the violence that has marked the six-day-old protest.

Federal and state officials and truckers' representatives tried without success to reach a compromise that could end the owner-drivers' protest over fuel prices and freight rates.

The shutdown or its effects reached at least 39 states. Shootings, tire slashings or rock throwings were reported late Monday night or early today in Louisiana, Rhode Island, Indiana, Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania as well as in North Carolina.

The number of layoffs reported in industries unable to get supplies or ship finished products topped 75,000. There were warnings that food shortages would start showing up at the retail level shortly.

Truckers blocking fuel deliveries caused problems for schools in some areas where buses couldn't get gas.

Sources close to the negotiations in Washington had indicated Monday night that agreement on a compromise plan was near, but the session broke up early today without a solution. Talks were scheduled to resume later in the day.

The compromise plan reportedly involved 11 points which the truckers consider "minimum acceptable demands."

In general, the demands involve the supply and price of truck fuel, freight rates, driver safety standards and federal and state regulations under which truckers operate.

The truckers' key point reportedly is a demand that they be permitted to pass increased fuel costs through to shippers on a dollar for dollar basis plus an additional surcharge on existing freight rates.

The National Guard was on duty in Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania to keep order and prevent the shootings, rock throwings and tire slashings that have marked the widespread tie-up, which began last Thursday. One trucker was killed.

Guardsmen were on standby alert in Connecticut, Kentucky and New Hampshire.

In Maryland, police reported three separate incidents in which trucks were fired on Monday, but there were no injuries, officers said. One driver suffered eye injuries when a rock was thrown through the windshield of his truck as he crossed a bridge in Baltimore, police said.

In Oklahoma, protesting truckers blocked truck traffic on U.S. 69 near Big Cabin for four hours Monday before police ended the traffic tie-up. One driver was arrested.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp authorized the use of $1 million in state funds to deal with the strike after issuing a "Proclamation of Extreme Emergency." Shapp said 50,000 workers in the state have been laid off by the shutdown and predicted the total would hit 350,000 by the end of the week if the protests continued.

More than 17,000 auto workers were laid off in nine plants in Wisconsin,

Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Ohio as parts deliveries dwindled to a trickle because of the shutdown. The layoffs were projected to last from one day to a week.

In West Virginia, at least 3,500 persons were out of work in glass and electrical plants because of supply shortages.

The National Association of Food Chains said in Washington that most food stores have enough meat and produce to supply normal consumer demand.

But the American Meat Institute reported slaughter was down sharply because of the truckers' action. A spokesman said 19 per cent fewer cattle were killed Monday than one week ago and hog slaughter was down 39 per cent from last week.

Chicken production was also threatened, and the National Broiler Council said 35 per cent of all U.S.

broiler processing plants would not open their doors today. Twice that number would be affected by Wednesday if the truckers' action continued.

States like Ohio and Pennsylvania in the busy transportation corridor between the East Coast and the Midwest have felt the worst of the trouble. Western states generally have been quieter.

The Colorado shutdown was reported peaceful but was causing serious disruptions in the meatpacking industry, including the closing of the Monfort packing plant in Greeley, one of the largest in the West. About 980 employees were laid off at least through today.

In Utah, some truck stops were closed along Interstate 80. Jeff Woods, oil tanker driver and representative of Overdrive Magazine which has sponsored the shutdown, said drivers were avoiding violence.

Britain faces nationwide coal walkout

LONDON (AP) — Britain's coal miners decided today to begin a national strike from midnight Saturday, plunging the troubled British economy into a deepening crisis.

The decision was taken by the executive of the National Union of Mineworkers, which represents 280,000 men. It was announced by the union president, Joe Gormley.

Gormley addressed newsmen after he turned down a last-minute plea from Employment Secretary William Whitelaw who had asked for a meeting between government negotiators and union leaders.

The 27-man leadership of the miners union was meeting to decide whether to order the strike approved by the miners in a referendum last week.

Whitelaw wanted the meeting to plead once more with the union leaders that a miners' walkout will spell disaster for a Britain already struggling under the energy crisis and gigantic foreign trade deficits.

Confident that there will be a strike, Gormley said, "I can't see any useful purpose in meeting Mr. Whitelaw and we would not have any time anyway."

Coal supplies 70 per cent of the nation's electricity and the government says even with nonessential industry on a three-day work week, the power stations have stocks enough to last them only until the end of March. An even shorter work week is expected if the miners go out.

Plane crashes; at least 2 die

CYNTHIANA, Ky. (AP) — At least two persons were killed today when a private twin engine plane crashed and burned on a farm about four miles southeast of here, State Police said.

Officers said they could see two bodies in the wreckage but could not examine it further because of intense heat.

"political matters meeting" in Haldeman's office.

Colson's initial warning about the probe came in a memo dated Sept. 24, 1971, just 15 days after McLaren first requested a formal criminal inquiry.

Colson told Haldeman, "For obvious reasons, I should not be involved with respect to the following. There is under way in the Justice Department at the moment an Antitrust Division investigation of the milk producers cooperatives.... If this goes too far, there will be a number of very serious adverse consequences, which I would be glad to elaborate on in detail."

File charges in 3 slayings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Suburban Worthington police said they have filed three murder charges against Clifford Chase, 19, in the slayings of his parents and younger brother.

Chase was to be arraigned in Columbus Municipal Court today on the charges, said police Capt. M. D. Alexich. He said Chase was being kept at the Franklin County Jail.

Robert C. Chase, 41; and wife, Joan, 42, and younger son, Robert, 17, were found shot to death Monday at the family's plush home in the suburb north of Columbus.

Chase, an instructor in preventive medicine at the Ohio State University College of Medicine and associate director of the biometrics laboratory, was sprawled in the winding rear driveway of the home. Police said he had been shot in the right side of the face.

Mrs. Chase was found lying in a hallway near the kitchen with a bullet wound in the back of the head and Robert, shot once in the middle of the back, was lying in the dining room.

No murder weapon was found at the scene.

Clifford Chase, who police said was a high school dropout and unemployed, was arrested at his apartment.

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Forty-six per cent of Americans surveyed would prefer to have Vice President Gerald R. Ford finish the remainder of President Nixon's second term, the latest Gallup Poll shows.

The survey, taken Jan. 18-24, showed 46 per cent preferring Ford over Nixon, 32 per cent choosing Nixon and 22 per cent expressing no preference.

Sunnyside School: slated for closing

City middle school OK'd; Sunnyside building to close

Sunnyside Elementary School will not be used by city students during the 1974-75 school year as a result of action taken by the Washington C.H. Board of Education Monday night.

After extensive studies of a proposal to create a middle school (sixth-eighth graders), the board approved the proposal for Washington C.H. schools next year. Included in the plan to offer students a better environment for learning and to make more efficient use of school facilities was the closing of the elementary school.

THE BOARD authorized the purchase of a new school bus, and will look into the feasibility of purchasing an additional smaller school bus and a video tape recorder. A decision on the two proposed items will be highly af-

Bus bomb kills 11 in Britain

LONDON (AP) — Police questioned sympathizers of the Irish Republican Army in Manchester today in a massive search for terrorists who bombed a military bus and killed 11 persons.

It was the worst terrorist bombing in Britain in this century.

The bus was loaded with servicemen and their families returning to camp in Yorkshire after a weekend in Manchester, chief city of the industrial Midlands, when it exploded early Monday. Eight servicemen and the wife and two children of one of them were killed, and 14 persons were wounded.

Glenn files petitions for U.S. Senate race

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former astronaut John Glenn today filed as a candidate for the U.S. Senate, setting the stage for another Democratic primary confrontation with Howard Metzenbaum.

"I wear the collar of no man or special interest group," Glenn said. Metzenbaum, who, now holds the seat by appointment, has the backing of party leaders and the AFL-CIO.

Cousins die in blaze

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Five cousins whose ages ranged from 16 months to 5 years died early today in a fire at a home where they had been left unattended, police said.

Police said the 21-year-old mother of three of the children, Mattie McIntosh, was located at a nearby bar after the victims' bodies were discovered at her home.

Authorities identified the victims of the fire, which broke out shortly after midnight, as Elizabeth McIntosh, 5; Yvette McIntosh, 4; Anise McIntosh Jr., 3; Sylvester Naves, 3; and Glenn Naves, 16 months.

ected by whether or not the state will provide matching funds for such purchases.

Under the plan for the 1974-75 school year, sixth graders will be transferred to the present junior high building with seventh and eighth graders. These three grades would eventually be offered courses which would combine one or more "subject" under a more general topic.

Freshmen will attend Washington Senior High School where some sophomore courses would be available to them. This is especially important to those freshmen who fail one or more ninth grade courses. While they could retake courses they failed, they can also take sequel courses to those they passed.

First through fifth grade students currently attending Sunnyside school will be transferred to Belle Aire and Eastside. This, in addition to the savings in fuel and custodial costs as well as not hiring personnel to fill two teaching vacancies, income can be generated by renting the building to any educational organization with whom a satisfactory agreement can be negotiated. Savings to the system has been estimated in excess of $25,000, and this money will be used to improve the resources of the other six schools.

The board approved a $500 expenditure by the Athletic Council for the purchase of new all-metal hurdles for the track team. The new hurdles will adjust to four heights, including a middle height which will be used in inter-scholastic competition next year.

Mrs. Jack Marti, 512 Columbus Ave., questioned the board whether or not there were any plans for renovation of the high school track facilities at Gardner Park. Although the board agreed that the track and field facilities were in deplorable condition, they said that there were no immediate plans for an extensive renovation project.

The track facilities, they said, will be

Rollback dispute hits energy bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price rollback issue is developing into the newest controversy as Congress tries to agree on energy legislation.

While Senate-House conferees on the emergency energy bill were deciding in favor of rolling back the price of some domestic crude oil, Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz was telling the House Ways and Means Committee Monday that he's firmly against a rollback.

During the Ways and Means Committee's hearing on oil tax reform proposals, however, federal energy chief William E. Simon appeared to show at least some flexibility on rollback points. But, talking later to reporters, Simon insisted he's not clashing with Shultz.

Shultz and Simon, the Nixon administration's chief tax and energy officials, spent most of Monday explaining the details of the new proposals to the taxwriting House Committee.

Meanwhile, Senate-House conferees on the emergency energy legislation approved a proposal to roll back the price of some domestic crude oil — aides said it would apply to roughly 29 per cent of oil produced in the United States.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., author of the provision, said administration officials estimate the rollback would lower the price of gasoline at the pump by 5½ cents. After the rollback to $5.25 a barrel, prices could be increased only as a result of higher costs and would not exceed a $7.09 ceiling per barrel.

The White House would have 30 days in which to ask Congress to exempt certain categories of oil from the rollback and price ceiling provisions, if it found that the lowered price would reduce supply. The emergency bill also would give the President power to order gasoline rationing and other energy conservation measures.

At the Ways and Means Committee, meantime, Shultz took a strong stand against a rollback in present crude oil prices, despite indications from elsewhere in the administration that such a step may be under study. Shultz termed it "a very poor idea" that would dampen new investment, switch profits from the United States to abroad, and would not — in the long run — give consumers cheaper petroleum products.

Specifically, Shultz and Simon urged enactment of a temporary tax that would drain windfall profits from the recent boosts in crude oil prices. The levy would phase out if price levels stabilize during the coming years.

They also proposed to deny U.S. oil producers the depreciation allowance on crude oil produced abroad and to slash the extent to which payment of taxes to foreign countries may be used to offset U.S. taxes on other foreign-generated income.

When Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., acting chairman of the House panel, asked about how close the nation might be to gasoline rationing, Simon said that, with help from the weather and cooperation by the American people, "we're holding our own."

"Shortages are still of a spot nature

Ohio Assembly pushes pre-election recess

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Leaders of 110th Ohio General Assembly are talking about a legislative recess beginning April 4 and continuing until May 8, the day after the primary election.

The purpose would be to give most of the lawmakers, seeking re-election, time to campaign for re-election back in their home districts.

All 99 House seats are at stake this year since that chamber's members serve two-terms. Seventeen of the thirty-three senators are up for re-election. They serve four-year terms, with half being elected every two years. The odd-numbered Senate seats are up for grabs this year.

Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, said the House Rules Committee discussed the prospective recess and indicated agreement, but that he still must confer with Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, R-3 Columbus.

Lancione said if the recess is agreed to, the House and Senate would hold and don't justify implementing a rationing system for 50 states.... We've got a better than 50-50 chance of beating rationing."

Simon also urged motorists to stay away from the gasoline pumps unless they need at least $3 worth of gasoline. He said the minimum purchase would help reduce the long lines at gasoline stations.

In New Jersey, Gov. Brendan T. Byrne said he would exercise emergency powers to implement a gasoline allocation system intended to ease critical shortages.

And Amoco Oil Co. announced gasoline price reductions of two cents a gallon and of one cent a gallon for heating oil and residual fuels. The cutbacks are in accordance with government's pricing formulas which provide for adjustments in product prices as changes occur in the availability and costs of crude oil and purchased products.

skeleton sessions from week to week in order to meet statutory requirements for keeping the lawmakers in session. State lawmakers traditionally have taken time off for campaigning during election years.

Both chambers resume floor sessions at 1:30 p.m. today with the House slated to vote on a bill that would permit the teaching of venereal disease problems in grades seven through 12.

Senators called for a floor vote on a House-passed emergency bill to take from Ohio statutes a requirement for the election of a 19-day U.S. senator this year. Unless the law is repealed, Ohioans would have to elect a short term senator in November to serve only from Dec. 15 until Jan. 3, 1975, when the candidate elected to a full, six-year term would be qualified and sworn in.

Much of this week's activity is expected to center about committee hearings, including Senate consideration of Housepassed no fault insurance measure. A motorist could collect from his own insurance company in the event of an accident, if damages do not exceed a set limit, under the measure.

In other business, the Senate Finance Committee will give a second hearing Tuesday afternoon to a bill that would require the state to operate on annual budgets—instead of having the legislature appropriate funds two years in advance. The same panel will continue consideration of another measure that would add four legislators to the nine-member Ohio Board of Regents.

Also on Tuesday afternoon, the Senate Judiciary Committee is scheduled to resume hearing on a House-passed bill to regulate abortions in Ohio. Extensive changes are expected to be recommended by a subcommittee which has been studying the proposal for the past three weeks.

The Senate Agriculture, Conservation, and Environment Committee scheduled a hearing at 9:30 a.m.

Wednesday on a resolution calling on Congress to repeal the new federal Daylight Saving Time law.

Wednesday night the Senate Education and Health Committee will call for testimony on a measure that would allow Ohio school districts to lease buses to non-public schools.

The administration's emergency energy bill comes up for a second hearing Wednesday night before the House Select Committee on Energy. That proposal met with substantial Republican opposition last week with some GOP lawmakers claiming the legislation would give "excessive" powers to the governor to deal with an energy crisis not yet sufficiently defined.

Chairman James P. Celebrezze, D-4 Cleveland, of the House Transportation Committee said he expects that panel to recommend passage Wednesday morning of an emergency bill conforming Ohio speed laws to the new federal limit of 55 miles per hour.

Oliver R. Skidmore

Oliver Ray (Graddy) Skidmore, 63, of 728 Eastern Ave., was found dead in a truck parked at his residence at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The body was discovered by Willard Mitchell, of the same address, and police said that Mr. Skidmore's head was on the seat of the truck and his feet on the running board. He was last seen alive at 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Police believe that Mr. Skidmore may have died of exposure, although Dr. Ralph Gebhart, county coroner, was making a ruling later in the day. Police said there was no indication of foul play.

Born in Washington C.H., Mr. Skidmore was self-employed. His wife, Nellie, died in 1954. They had no children.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Parrett Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert Kline officiating. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery.

Ohioans paid to leave state

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Last year the state paid 1,066 persons an average of $60 a week to look for work in Florida, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services reports.

The bureau said most probably were looking for construction work or resort jobs.

Altogether, the OBES reported, it paid $5,266,555 to out-of-state-recipients in 1973, or about five per cent of the $108.5 million total unemployment compensation paid during the year.

Nixon biggest deficit spender

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once a firm advocate of the balanced budget, Richard M. Nixon has turned out to be the greatest deficit spender in the White House since Franklin D. Roosevelt.

His red-ink record is a product of a fundamental change in his economic thinking and an economy that is much more complex, with the dollar worth much less, than a generation ago.

Since Nixon took office in 1969, the government has overspent its revenues by $63.4 billion. The total red ink will reach about $68 billion when the fiscal 1974 year ends June 30, according to federal budget officials.

On top of that, Nixon's proposed budget for fiscal 1975 calls for a $9.4 billion deficit, which would push the total of his deficit spending to $77.4 billion by June 30, 1975.

Lyndon B. Johnson ranks closest to Nixon for deficit spending in the years since the heavy World War II wartime deficits. Johnson had federal budget deficits totaling a net $45.1 billion from 1964 to 1969.

President John F. Kennedy was in office two fiscal years, 1962 and 1963, and had deficits both times totaling $11.8 billion.

Kiger files as candidate for prosecuting attorney

James A. Kiger, 622 Van Deman St., who was appointed by the Fayette County Republican Central Committee Jan. 17 to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Otis Hess Jr. as Fayette County prosecuting attorney, has filed his petitions with the Fayette County Board of Elections as a candidate for the prosecutor post, subject to the Republican May primary.

Kiger had been appointed as interim prosecuting attorney by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners before the Republican Central Committee confirmed the selection.

The resignation of Hess and Assistant Prosecutor Robert Simpson, who had served in the capacity as the county's legal counsel for one year, was triggered by differences in the budget request made by the prosecutor's office and the amount of money the commissioners were willing to allocate.

Kiger, whose office is located at 132 S. Main St., resigned as city solicitor effective Dec. 31 after serving in that position for the past five years. He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati and the University of Kentucky. He opened his law practice in Washington C.H. 12 years ago. Kiger has served two terms as president of the Fayette County Bar Association and has been admitted to practice

Close photographs of Venus to come from Mariner 10

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists are set for their first close-up look at the clouds surrounding Venus as Mariner 10 glides by the planet and beams photos back to earth.

The pictures from nearly 27.5 million miles out in space were to be taken today as the 1,108-pound spacecraft moves to a point about 3,585 miles from Venus.

Two cameras were to start operating about 30 minutes before Mariner comes its closest to the Venus and will continue taking pictures for the next 17 days.

As Mariner moves closer to Venus, the planet's gravity is expected to slow the spacecraft down and allow the sun's gravity to bend Mariner's course, heading it toward its prime target, Mercury.

Launched last Nov. 3, Mariner has traveled a roundabout route of 107 million miles to reach Venus, photographing earth, the moon and the comet Kohoutek along the way.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory say they do not expect to see the scalding surface of Venus because of the thick cloak of clouds. Temperatures on Venus are 800 to 900 degrees.

But the scientists said they hoped the information provided by the photos and other experiments aboard Mariner will teach them more about the Venusian atmosphere. They said such knowledge might help meteorologists better understand atmospheric conditions on earth.

House, Dwight D. Eisenhower had deficits of $15.8 billion.

Harry S. Truman overspent federal revenues by a net $1.5 billion.

Johnson had the largest postwar deficit, $25.1 billion in fiscal 1968, as he tried to finance the Vietnam war and Great Society.

Even though Nixon has had two deficits reaching close to that amount, $23 billion in fiscal 1971 and $23.2 billion a year later, Nixon economists say Johnson's 1968 deficit was highly inflationary while Nixon's were not.

The reason, they say, is that the Nixon deficits have not gone beyond the amount of money that would flow into the Treasury if the unemployment rate were 4 per cent, the unofficial definition of full employment. They say Johnson's did go beyond this theoretical balance.

Nixon decided to adopt the full-employment budget concept for fiscal 1972. He said that approach guaranteed that deficit spending would help achieve high employment while not triggering inflation.

The inflationary boom of 1973 led Nixon to return, temporarily, to the "old-time religion of a balanced budget." But, by the time this fiscal year ends, the deficit will still be $4.6 billion.

Snow was expected across Ohio today, beginning in the west and spreading across the entire state by this evening. Accumulations of two or three inches were expected in northern counties.

The snow is being triggered by a low pressure area moving into the state from the plains.

The snow is expected to change to rain in the south late tonight and over the remainder of the state Wednesday. Temperatures will rise slowly tonight and Wednesday, with highs Wednesday generally in the 30s.

It was quite cold over Ohio Monday with occasional light snow. Highs ranged from 17 at Toledo to 27 at Zanesville. Precipitation totaled no more than a few hundredths of an inch.

Skies cleared overnight, but began clouding again in the west before sunrise. Lows plunged to around zero in the northwest to around 20 near the river.

A chance of snow is forecast for Thursday and again on Saturday. Skies will be fair Friday. Highs will range in the upper 20s and the 30s. Lows will be in the upper teens and the 20s.

Cold clings to northern parts of U. S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold weather clung to most of the nation from the Rockies to the Atlantic today and drove temperatures into the frosty 30s as far south as the Florida Panhandle.

The mercury settled to 18 at Lansing, Mich., Monday night to tie a 62-year-old record for Feb. 4 there.

Readings in the single figures chilled the entire northern tier of states from North Dakota to New England. Temperatures slid into the lower 20s from the middle Mississippi Valley through the Virginias, and frost or freeze warnings were in effect overnight for northern Florida.

Snow sifted into scattered areas from the interior Pacific Northwest to the Great Lakes and the Ohio Valley. Light snow also dusted some inland communities of the Northeast.

Travel advisories were issued for parts of North Dakota for up to 4 inches of snow. Gusty winds and moderate blowing snow also was expected to cause locally hazardous conditions in Minnesota.

Clear skies favored most of the eastern third of the country and the broad region from the Southwest to the Southeast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 15 at Lansing, Mich., to 67 at Key West, Fla.

Motorist raps Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — "You'll never see me in Florida again," a disgusted Bob Byerly of Columbus, Ohio, said Monday as he and his wife started back home after finding some gasoline stations closed and others with long lines.

The couple turned around in Tampa instead of continuing to their planned destination of Miami.

Byerly said they decided to drive to the sunshine state after reading that Florida Gov. Reubin Askew had assured tourists that plenty of gasoline was available.

"Then we get here and run into this," Byerly said, referring to the station closings and lineups that caused the federal government to order an emergency gasoline supply be sent to Florida.

"It's a damn shame," Byerly said. "If you can't believe the governor, who can you believe?"

Kremlin summit meet pushed by President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has quickened the pace of preparations for an early summer Kremlin summit, ranging over plans for a return to Moscow and key international issues in talks with visiting Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who hosted a dinner for Gromyko Monday night, arranged for further talks with the veteran diplomat today at the Soviet Embassy before he departs for his homeland.

In a two-hour White House meeting Monday, Nixon and Gromyko discussed the East and European issues and current U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation Talks, according to Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren.

Describing the session as "very useful and extensive and cordial," Warren said Nixon and Gromyko also "talked of this year's projected meeting between the President and General Secretary Brezhnev in the Soviet Union."

Warren would not give a date for the trip, but The Associated Press reported Saturday that tentative plans called for it to take place in June. Before then,

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed today after an earlier downward drift.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down nearly 4 points earlier, was up 2.58 at 824.08 at noon, while declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by 3 to 2.

Larry Wachtel, an analyst with Bache & Co., said investors were worrying about the impact of the truckers' strike and the continuing oil embargo, which shows no sign of letup despite recent assurances from the Nixon administration. Also causing concern, brokers said, were inflation, unemployment, the slowing economy, and Watergate.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index at noon was off .14 at 95.36, while the NYSE composite index was up .08 at 50.

Gold stocks were up as the price of gold rose in world markets. Homestake Mining was up 2 1/4 to 94 1/4; Day Mines rose 1/2 to 17 1/4, and Giant Yellowknife was up 3/4 to 24 1/4.

4 men slain in shootout at Mosque

NEW YORK (AP)—Four men, including two Muslim ministers, were killed and a fifth man critically wounded when several black gunmen invaded a Brooklyn mosque and opened fire, police reported.

Police said they believed the shooting Monday night was provoked by a feud between different Muslim factions.

Slain in the gunfire at the Ya Sin Mosque in Brooklyn's predominantly black Bedford-Stuyvesant section were Abdullah Rahman, 36, the leader of the mosque, and Muhammed Ahmed, 30, identified by police as another minister.

Rahman died at the scene. Ahmed died shortly afterwards of chest wounds at Brooklyn Jewish Hospital.

Also dead when police reached the mosque were men tentatively identified as Peter Jeffries and Ed Mason, both of the Bronx. Police said Jeffries and Mason, both wearing heavy winter jackets, apparently were among the gunmen who burst into the mosque.

Another mosque member, identified as Jamil Haqq, was reported in critical condition at Brooklyn Jewish Hospital.

According to police, the mosque was part of the Sunni Muslim movement, whose adherents claim to be more orthodox in their practice of Islam than the Black Muslims, who follow the teachings of Elijah Muhammad.

Asst. Police Chief James Sullivan said about the shooting: "We've made a determination after sitting down and sorting things out that it's an inter-factional thing."

Commission continues ditch project hearing

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday afternoon established a date for receiving bids for two new cruisers for the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Commissioners will open bids for the two new cruisers at 11 a.m. Monday, March 4 in their office.

The board continued the first public hearing on the proposed Indian Creek ditch project. The first public hearing originally was scheduled to be held Monday afternoon, and the hearing was extended until 2 p.m. Feb. 25.

Fourteen persons attended the scheduled first hearing on the Indian Creek ditch project, but commissioners extended the hearing because they needed more information from Charles Wagner, Fayette County engineer.

The project, which calls for the construction of a new ditch, involves 3,600 acres in Wayne Township and affects nearly 140 landowners. The proposed ditch construction was petitioned to the commissioners by William Shepard, Willard Parrett, Dr. Joseph Herbert and Lucille Braden.

In other matters, commissioners authorized O.M. Riegel, Fayette County welfare director, to attend an Ohio Welfare Directors meeting in Columbus Wednesday.

Reginald (Chink) Davis, county dog warden, submitted 21 reports for the week.

Seek help from Guard in walkout

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Mayor James Puckett is awaiting an answer from Gov. John J. Gilligan to his request for Ohio National Guard assistance in the face of a walkout by the city's police and firemen.

Puckett requested the assistance of the guard Monday night. He said he was told the governor would respond to the request sometime today.

A Stark County Common Pleas Court judge granted a temporary injunction against the men, but the walkout continued.

The various stations were being manned by commanding officers.

Puckett said he has received assistance from the Stark County Sheriff's office and the Ohio Highway Patrol. However, he added, with the truckers strike going on and with the limited command officers available it is almost impossible to cope with all the calls for assistance.

The men began calling in sick early Monday morning after they rejected a city pay offer that called for pay hikes of $624 a year, plus fringes.

Court imposes check sentence

A Jeffersonville man pleaded guilty in Common Pleas Court Friday to a charge of cashing a forged check while knowing the check was forged.

He was sentenced to a term of one to five years in the Ohio State Reformatory, but after imposing sentence, Judge Evelyn W. Coffman suspended it in favor of three-year probation with Sheriff Don Thompson.

David M. Creech, 19, Jeffersonville, also was fined $100 on the charged filed by the Sheriff's Department. He had been arrested Jan. 9.

Controls needed beyond April 30?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is expected to tell Congress that it is lifting wage and price controls as rapidly as possible, but can't do it all by April 30, sources report.

It also is likely to propose continuing controls for an indefinite period in some problem areas, especially the health industry, and possibly also in the construction and food industries, the sources say.

The present legislative authority for wage and price controls expires April 30 and all controls would automatically end on that date unless Congress extended the authority.

Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council is scheduled to reveal the administration's position on the future of controls when he appears Wednesday before the Senate Banking

Committee's subcommittee on productivity and stabilization.

Although President Nixon and top administration economists are unanimously agreed that most wage and price controls should be lifted eventually, the administration's position on what will happen after April 30 has been a closely guarded secret.

But President Nixon outlined administration policy in his State of the Union message, saying he will "pursue a policy of gradual, selective decontrol except in particularly troublesome areas."

Council sources say that, although the administration would like to end most controls by April 30, it probably has decided it cannot for fear of what would happen to prices. Instead the administration may ask Congress for some control authority to continue after April 30.

The food area is considered particularly dangerous for 1974, and the administration is said to be anxious to avoid any big new boom in prices that would cause new demands in Congress and from the public for reimposition of a comprehensive controls program.

For this reason, sources say, it may decide to continue controls in the food area and in construction and the health industry, including hospitals and doctors and dentists.

Frustration whompers

The truth of the observation that people are funnier than anybody draws new support from word about the Bataca. This device is a foam rubber cudgel meant to permit married couples to take out their frustrations by whacking each other in moments of domestic crisis without causing grievous bodily harm.

A subsidiary purpose, we are assured by the manufacturer and chief tub-thumper for the bataca, is to allow other members of family groups similar satisfaction. The presumption is that parents and children, say, or spouses and in-laws may want to flail away at each other from time to time.

The supplier of batacas, Richard Epstein of Venice, Calif., recently told delegates to the California State Psychological Association that he has sold many of the bats to psychologists around the country. His thesis (whether or not it is accepted by the aforementioned psychologists we are not prepared to say) is that the batacas "permit a safe, satisfying release for anger, hostility, frustration and excess energy."

We remain not wholly convinced of the therapeutic value of the gadget. Reflection suggests that a whomp over the head, while releasing the whomper's anger, hostility and so forth, might have the undesired result of reinforcing such sentiments in the whompee.

As must often be said when new fields of study are being explored, further research and experiment is needed.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by Bayard Rustin

The priorities of blacks

Editor's note: John Roche is traveling. His guest columnist today is Bayard Rustin, director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute and distinguished leader of the civil rights movement over the past quarter century.

What are the most serious problems black people face?

If asked this question a few years ago, many whites would doubtlessly have answered that the problems were measurably different from those confronting the rest of society. Whereas poor people and the working class have traditionally suffered from unemployment, bad housing, lack of access to education, run-down, crime-infested neighborhoods and other inequities built into the economic order, blacks, it was thought, suffered above all else from the racist attitudes of individual whites.

The belief that personal attitudes were more important than economic injustice was reflected in the reaction to the Kerner Commission Report. Despite its explicit condemnation of the racist behavior of institutions — as opposed to the racist sentiments of individuals — the report was widely interpreted as a call for whites to look inward.

Unhappily, the commission's findings were made public at precisely the moment that America could least afford to indulge in self-analysis. Ghettos were burning, and the country was traumatized by racial disorder.

Black people were intensely disillusioned — not so much because of the persistence of individual prejudice — but because government was failing to follow through on its promises to remake our economic and social structure.

NOW the New York Times has published a study which, while not exploring racial problems so comprehensively as the Kerner Commission, presents a more accurate reflection of what black people want. Its significance lies in its findings that the problems have of blacks and the problems of whites are basically the same and, moreover, that these problems have almost nothing to do with attitudes or prejudices.

Both blacks and whites, for instance, were more concerned about crime than any other social ill; blacks, if anything, were more emphatic in their feelings about law and order. Both agree that the other most important problems were housing, drug addiction and transportation. They agreed that the rich, the corporations, landlords and organized crime received preferential treatment from government.

And while about one of every five blacks acknowledged to having been victimized by discrimination, almost none listed racial bias as the most important problem they faced.

In only one respect did the survey find strong racial differences. This was government programs — such as busing or the placement of low-income housing in middle-income neighborhoods — to further integration. Otherwise, blacks and whites expressed very much the same attitudes toward social problems, institutions, and what ought to be the priorities of government.

What has been written here is in no way meant to minimize the awful spiritual and psychological toll which prejudice exacts from our society. Nor is it my intention to deny that racist attitudes can and certainly do determine the policies of government and the functioning of institutions.

BUT THE PRIMARY answer to America's racial problems is economic and political, not psychological. Blacks recognize this; the challenge, therefore, is to drive the point home, as emphatically and often as possible, to all Americans who are concerned about inequality.

If we have learned any thing from recent experience, it is that social myths can infect the entire political system. As long as racism was the principal enemy, concerted, interracial political action was impossible. And to the degree that the nation turned inward, the more likely it was to believe that "government programs don't make any difference."

We would be much better off today if we had attacked the basic problems about which the majority of Americans are concerned. For in the mobilization of a coalition of the majority of Americans who need social change lies the solution to polarization and hate. And in the resolution of these problems lies the ultimate answer to racism.

Teacher strike hits Wellston

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — The 111 teachers in Wellston's four public schools planned to strike today to protest a board of education decision not to renew the contracts of the district's six administrators.

Shortly after members of the Wellston Teachers Association voted for the strike action Monday night, nonteaching employees who belong to the Ohio Association of Public School Employees decided to honor their picket lines.

The school board's action culminates a long dispute between the board and administrators. The board also decided to investigate the legality of the school superintendent's five-year contract. About 2,000 pupils attend the four schools.

Man given sentence in Coshocton death

COSHOCTON, Ohio (AP) — Michael Taylor, 28, was sentenced to 11-40 years in prison Monday following his conviction of first-degree manslaughter and unlawful possession of LSD in the July death of 22-year-old Eileen Roadruck.

Authorities reduced the charge from murder, they said, when Taylor was found to be under the influence of LSD at the time of the death, which occurred in the woman's apartment here.

By ROBERT E. MILLER

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's new color photo driver licenses are catching on so well state officials say all the state's 8 million drivers probably will have them in three years instead of the estimated four.

About 80,000 have been processed since the licenses went on sale Jan. 2 at 208 locations in 88 counties, estimated C. Donald Curry, registrar of motor vehicles.

Many Ohioans apparently are buying them with time remaining on their existing licenses, said Curry.

The laminated licenses, sold over the counter for $5.50 each, are made available at no increase in price over the old paper licenses. They are good for four years, a year longer than the old ones and as a result actually are 50 cents cheaper, Curry said.

At the rate they are going, sales should reach about 2.6 million by the end of 1974 and "everyone should have them in three years, or a little longer," the registrar said.

Curry said his bureau is making no effort to advertise that drivers with time remaining on their licenses may surrender them and obtain a duplicate photo license for the old duplicate fee of $1.50. In the past, duplicates have been issued in cases where licenses have been lost.

"We realize a lot of people are in a hurry to get them, and we're handling them," said Curry. "We just don't want to advertise and be swamped by the masses of Ohio," Curry said.

Law enforcement officials in Ohio and other states praise the new licenses. They help cut down forgeries and other fraud involving identification, they say.

"Deputy registrars thus far have had very few problems except we have had three or four break ins by people attempting to steal the equipment," Curry said.

None of the burglars has got hold of a complete machine that would enable him to make phony licenses, the registrar said.

"We're knocking on wood," he said. Curry said deputies are instructed to render the machines inoperable during non-business hours in a secret way, and that the bureau has additional security measures under consideration.

Polaroid Corp. supplies the cameras and laminating equipment at no cost to the state. Instead, the firm collects a fee of 34.7 cents for each license processed. The license price has absorbed the Polaroid take, Curry said.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: WE DO NOT QUITE FORGIVE A GIVER. THE HAND THAT FEEDS US IS IN SOME DANGER OF BEING BITTEN.—RALPH WALDO EMERSON

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

This criminal needs to forgive himself

DEAR ABBY: Although I am in prison, I am a loyal reader of your column. Mostly because I miss sharing life with people.

At times you have expressed faith in God. Deep in the night I am restless and unable to sleep because the memory of my crime (murder) haunts me. I have sought God's forgiveness and believe that Jesus died for our sins, but I am unable to find relief from my troubled conscience.

Abby, is murder a forgivable sin? I find no reference to it in the Bible, but there is reference to an eye for an eye. If you can give me the answer, you will do much for my peace of mind. Thank you.

A FRIEND IN RALEIGH, N.C.
DEAR FRIEND: All religions endorse the concept of forgiveness to one who is sincere in contrition and repentance. It was expressed in the Old Testament in Isaiah 55:7. "Let the sinner abandon his way and his thoughts and let him return unto the Lord for He will have mercy upon him and fully for give." In fact, so strong is this feeling in the Bible it is repeated seven times in the Old Testament.

If a misdeed was committed, it can be fully atoned by paying one's debt to society and also by examining one's conscience and through self-understanding changing one's way and returning to the path of goodness. A beautiful expression of Divine forgiveness and mercy was given by Nahman of Bratslav, an 18th-Century sage: "There is no sin that will not be forgiven by sincere repentance."

To this may I add that the hardest person to forgive is oneself. God Bless.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother. She shoplifts. I know this for a fact because I have seen her in action. She takes only small things that will fit into her purse. I'm the only one in the family who knows about it. I really can't understand why Mom would steal. She can afford to buy anything she wants. Besides she picks up things she has no use for like, cheap sunglasses, and orange lipstick! She stole a can of cat food, and we don't even have a cat!

My mother and I aren't very close, so I can't talk to her about it. She'd probably deny it anyway.

It would kill my father if he knew. He is a highly respected elected government official. I am 15. Please don't use my name or town, but tell me what to do.

WORRIED FOR MOM
DEAR WORRIED: This type of shoplifting sounds like kleptomania. It's an illness and can be cured with treatment. First tell your mother what you have told me. And if she denies it, tell your father. It won't "kill" him. He'd appreciate learning it from you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HURTING
DOWN DEEP IN PHILLY: Don't be ashamed of an honest emotion. There are no good losers. Only good actors.

Recession statement challenged

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — For the present at least, time and semantics protect from challenge the President's proclamation that "there will be no recession in the United States of America."

It may take six months or so for enough supporting evidence of recession to be gathered. And even then the interpretation of that data might be questioned.

A similarly strong statement couldn't have been made about the rate of unemployment, for example, because the statistics are released each month. For the same reasons it would have been unwise to make any promises about inflation.

By definition, however, a recession is two consecutive quarters of reduced output, and that means it would be sometime in July at the earliest before the complete evidence would be in.

Even that might be rushing things. The National Bureau of Economic Research is usually accorded the honor of making the declaration, and sometimes it takes its own good time about doing so.

By the time a decision is reached by the independently-operated think tank, the economy might be several weeks into an expansion, thus making the pronouncement one primarily of historic value.

Not everyone agrees with the definition either. It is possible, they note, for unemployment to rise and businesses to go bankrupt and the mood of the nation to become one of despair while production expands, if ever so slightly.

And for practical purposes, many economists make their own ruling long before the statistical evidence is in. Albert Cox Jr., a former Nixon administration economist and now chief economist for Lionel D. Edie & Co., told clients this week:

"A recession probably began in December. As it deepens and spreads, unemployment will rise, demand will shrink, and some deflationary forces will begin to work."

While Cox might be unable to prove his point on the evidence available now, he is quite sure that by July his assumption will be confirmed. This is his forecast of growth rates for 1974:

First quarter — decline in real growth of 4.7 per cent. Second quarter — decline of 1 per cent. Thus a recession, but barely.

Thereafter Cox foresees growing strength, with an expansion of 2.1 per cent in the third quarter, and a 3.9 per cent advance in the final three months of the year.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If current negotiations don't meet snags, NEC's "Monday Night Baseball" season may start early with what NBC hopes will be a big bang both for itself and Atlanta slugger Hank Aaron.

That's the report from Carl Lindemann Jr., vice president of NBC Sports. He says his network wants to begin its Monday night schedule by giving viewers a chance to see Aaron hopefully tying or breaking Babe Ruth's record of 714 home runs.

NBC's "Monday Night Baseball" was scheduled to start May 20, according to Lindemann.

But he says the network now hopes to persuade baseball officials to let NBC push the starting date up to April 8, when Atlanta plays its season opener.

"We're awfully close to it (an agreement)," Lindemann said. "We're sure trying to capture the excitement of Henry Aaron for the start of the season."

Aaron now has a lifetime total of 713 home runs.

Whether viewers would see a historic hit by him the night of April 8 hinges on whether Aaron plays — and hits one or two home runs — during Atlanta's first three games, to be played April 4, 6 and 7 in Cincinnati.

Penn Central must pay up

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cuyahoga County Probate Court Judge Ralph S. Locher ordered the Penn Central Transportation Co. to pay $190,355 in back taxes to various governments here Monday.

Penn Central is $8.5 million in arrears to governments and school systems here.

Penn Central sold some of its property to the Cleveland-Cuyahoga Port Authority, but County Auditor George V. Voinovich would not allow the land to be tax exempt until the railroad paid some of its bills.

The authority recently agreed to pay $2.27 million for 17.9 acres of railroad property.

Penn Central, which is being reorganized by U.S. District Bankruptcy Court in Philadelphia, has not paid a major portion of its real estate taxes since 1970 because of a court order.

this year also will have fewer show-biz types sharing the broadcast booth with Curt Gowdy and Tony Kubek, according to Lindemann.

When NBC inaugurated its celebrity service last year, such entertainers as George C. Scott, Charlie Pride, Danny Kaye and Glenn Campbell were called in to discuss the grand old game.

Although viewers liked the idea, Lindemann said, the network now has decided to put more emphasis on famous baseball personalities as guest commentators.

NBC's Joe Garagiola, formerly of the "Today" show and the St. Louis Cardinals, Pittsburgh Pirates, Chicago Cubs and New York Giants, will be the guest commentator for four games this season.

Lindemann also said he hopes to get such baseball greats as Whitey Ford, Mickey Mantle, Ted Williams and retired National League umpire Jocko Conlon for the show.

He said Dizzy Dean, who did two shows last year and drew the most fan mail of all the guest commentators, will be on hand for two, possibly three of the games this year.

Money Does Matter . . . By J. W. Wallace

YOUR GREATEST ASSET: A REPUTATION FOR RESPONSIBILITY!

We hear much about "responsibility" — how little of it seems to be possessed by many individuals.

When one needs money, either for a business or a personal reason, credit standing — that which determines whether or not that need is going to be met — depends upon past performance as well as present circumstances.

A reputation for responsibility and fair dealing, and for paying bills when due, is a most valuable asset when applying for any loan.

Good financial judgment and the value of personal possessions, plus earning capacity, are also important. But, perhaps the most important of all is one's reputation for "responsibility".

Congratulations to Dale Merritt for having completed 20 years as a local representative for the Prudential Insurance Company.

We wish to recognize Carl E. Krieger, of Krieger Equipment Inc., and wish him success as head of the local Allis Chalmers dealership.

We are well aware that we, too, at the First National Bank of Washington Court House must have a good reputation for "responsibility".

But, we also want to be known for our "concern" — our concern about the needs of the customers for whom we are a complete service bank!

A memory that lasts forever . . .

Airport News

By JUDY DENNIS

We're wondering if maybe we should be in the boat business instead of the flying business, with all the rain we've had. Speaking of boats, I want to take this opportunity to deny the fact that Bill is using the hangar to build an ark. Although the weather wasn't the best, it did stay clear long enough Monday evening for Bill to start Jack Sanders on the VA commercial course. Bill and Warren Harmon spent most of the day working on the engine of one of our trainers which is being overhauled.

Tuesday, Bob Woodmansee made up for lost time, flying three hours working on his commercial license. John Woodmansee received instruction on retractable gear and constant speed prop in the Aerocommander. Joe Kingery had been trying for weeks to fly a student cross-country trip and the weather finally permitted his flight. Roy Smith was flying his Cessna 140, and Tex Guerra and Jack Sanders each flew solo practicing for their commercial license.

Wednesday and Thursday were both rainy days and very over-cast, at times. Tom Romph flew the twin-engine with Bill instructing. Jack Patton flew solo, and Jack Sanders and Bob Woodmansee took a night cross-country together.

Friday was beautiful, and we had a lot of traffic. Billy Pauley flew cross-country, and Bob and John Woodmansee each flew solo. In the afternoon, we had a real traffic jam for a while. At one time, we had a Cessna 150 from Highland County coming in to land following by an MU-2 (jet prop), a Twin Beech, and a Cherokee. The student in the 150 said he felt like getting out and pushing with the larger planes on his tail. The MU-2 brought

Fayette Pilots meet tonight

The regular monthly meeting of the Fayette County Pilots Association will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Fayette County Airport.

Jack Sanders, president, said several important business matters appear on the agenda and that is the primary reason for not scheduling a guest speaker.

Business matters include reports on the radio beacon, rotating light beacon, roadside sign and membership dues. New business will include incorporation, runway lights, airport authority, appointment of committees and preliminary plans for the annual fly-in.

Sanders said Maurice Hopkins will show a 20-minute film of World War I aircraft action following the business meeting.

Demos see election win

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Democrats are predicting victory by at least 6,000 votes in a special congressional election here today because of pocketbook issues and, possibly, Watergate.

But Republicans hoping to retain the U.S. House seat they've held for 25 years insist the race will go their way by a couple of thousand votes out of an expected turnout of 120,000.

"We're very confident," Democrat John Murtha said Monday. The 41-year-old state legislator lost the congressional race here in 1968 by 27,000 votes against the late Rep. John P. Saylor.

"I'm winning this election," said Republican Harry M. Fox, 49, administrative assistant to Saylor, who died last October.

Weather could be a factor, and so could the truckers strike, which has aggravated the gasoline shortage.

Boosters to meet

The Miami Trace Band Boosters will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 11, in the MTHS band room.

Carl Wilt Sr. candidate for county commissioner

Carl W. Wilt Sr., Rt. 4, Washington C.H., has filed petitions with the Fayette County Board of Elections as a candidate for a seat on the Fayette County Board of Commissioners, subject to the Republican primary in May.

An avid sportsman, Wilt was for many years active as a Little League, Babe Ruth and American Legion baseball manager. He is a long-time member of the Fayette County Fish and Game Association and has served in all the organization's offices. He currently is the association's secretary.

He is a member of Fayette Masonic Lodge No. 107, Fayette Chapter No. 133 of Royal Arch Masons, a member of the Central Ohio Gun and Indian Relic Collectors Association, the Fayette County Historical Society, the Bloomingburg Lions Club, both the Ohio and national auctioneer associations and collects old farm equipment and antiques. He attends the First Christian Church.

He and his wife, Hazel, who have resided on a small farm on Lewis Road for the past 25 years, are active members of the Paint Valley Kennel Club, and Mrs. Wilt operates a kennel and dog grooming shop in their home. The Wilts are the parents of two sons, Carl II, Old Springfield Rd., who is engaged in a heating, electrical and insulating business, and Jerald, a Pickaway County farmer.

"Since the office of county commissioner is becoming more demanding each year, I can and will, if necessary, devote all my time if elected," Wilt said.

Hey, the manufacturer's suggested retail price for Plymouth Duster is actually $188 less than the Super Bug. Of course, that doesn't include destination charges, state and local taxes, dealer prep charges or optional whitewalls ($27.45) and wheel covers ($25.75) like those shown on the Duster above.

Recently published results by Popular Science on tests conducted on '73 vehicles (and adjusted by them for 1974 model changes and the results of E.P.A. tests) show the "Slant Six" engine that's standard in our Duster can go farther on a gallon of gas than these five competitive models. That's something. When you add that Duster seats five people comfortably, has an electronic ignition that virtually eliminates ignition tune-ups, and plenty of trunk space... you've got to know that Duster offers you a lot for the money. Western Kentucky tops flyers, 87-83

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dayton, led by forward Mike Sylvester with 25 points, made a valiant comeback effort against Western Kentucky in basketball Monday night but couldn't hang on and suffered a 87-83 loss.

But the Flyers weren't alone. Two other major Ohio teams also ventured outside the state and jolted home with tarnished records.

Ohio State fell victim to Big Ten foe Minnesota 56-51 for its sixth conference loss in seven games.

And Bowling Green became the latest casualty of 19th ranked Oral Roberts.

Dayton came back from a 44-40 halftime deficit to go ahead 68-62 midway through the second period. But Western Kentucky, paced by Johnny Britt with 25 points, recovered and took the lead for good with a little more than a minute remaining to play.

Dayton's record fell to 13-6 while Western evened its season mark to 9-9.

Ohio State and Minnesota never were separated by more than four points until the closing moments of the game. The Gophers stalled out the last three minutes and sank six free throws as the Buckeyes fouled trying to steal.

Dennis Shaffer scored 22 points for Minnesota, now 3-4 in the Big Ten. Freshman Larry Bolden topped Ohio State with 21 points.

Oral Roberts and Bowling Green traded the lead 22 times in their Miami Trace ended the game hitting around the 30 per cent mark while Greenfield totaled 46 per cent from the field. Leading the Tiger's in accuracy was Dunson who chipped in 10 of 12 shots for 20 of his 21 points.

The Panther frosh were led by John Bakenhester with 12 points and by Joe Black with 10.

Next outing for Miami Trace will be Thursday against Circleville on the Panthers hardwood.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Canton South is the lone new face among The Associated Press' Ohio high school basketball powers this week.

A statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters voted the Canton school into the No. 10 spot in Class AAA. There were no newcomers in the Class AA and Class A top tens.

Canton South has won 14 of 15 games this season for Red Ash, only two triumphs away from reaching the 600-victory plateau in his coaching career.

Otherwise, the top tens looked like carbon copies of a week ago with the top four ranked teams in each division in the same order, led by Canton McKinley in Class AAA, Wellsville in Class AA and Mansfield St. Peter's in Class A.

McKinley, with 15 straight victories, earned 306 points, 52 more than runner-up Kettering Alter, 15-0, and 108 points in front of No. 3 Springfield North, also 15-0. Fourth-place Boardman, 15-1, had 197 points.

Wellsville, unbeaten in 13 games, polled 269 points in Class AA. Akron Manchester, perfect in 15 starts, collected 251 points for the No. 2 spot.

Newark Licking Valley retained the third spot with 195 points and Ashville Teays Valley was No. 4 again in Class AA. Both are 15-0.

Mansfield St. Peter's, 15-1, had a 267-242 lead over runner-up Sebring, 13-1, in Class A. Third came Lorain Clearview, 13-2, with 157 points and fourth again was Cleveland Lutheran East, 14-1.

In Class AAA, Dayton, Dunbar was fifth, Warren Western Reserve sixth, Hamilton Taft seventh, Cincinnati Elder eighth and Chillicothe No. 9, tumbling four spots after a setback to Upper Arlington.

In Class AA, Genoa was No. 5, followed by Millersburg West Holmes, Waverly, Canton Lehman, Louisville Aquinas and Columbus Mohawk.

In class A, Sidney Lehman was fifth, Canal Winchester sixth, and Greenwich South Central seventh, same as last week. Marion Pleasant leaped over Pittsburg Franklin-Monroe in the No. 8 spot. Sugarcreek Garaway again was No. 10.

Minnesota, 9-8 for the season and 3-4 in the conference after losing their first four starts including an 81-77 setback at Ohio State Jan. 19, stalled out the last three minutes and sank six free throws to end their scoring as Ohio State tried for desperation steals.

Larry Bolden, a 6-0 freshman guard, led the Buckeyes with 21 points while Steve Wenner added 12, all in the second half.

The teams were never separated by more than four points until the finish. The Gophers took the lead for good at 46-45 with 4½ minutes left on Rick McCutcheon's tip.

"I really would like to win by 20 points sometime," said Musselman. "But I guess from here on in, every game will be like this one. We play the way we have to. We really don't have the power on the boards to speed up the game. We just have to scrap for every basket."

The Gophers play at Purdue Saturday night, Ohio State is at Michigan.

Farm export sales figures show price decline ahead

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An item in the Nixon budget for the Agriculture Department shows that government farm economists think prices of some commodities are due for substantial declines because of large harvests in 1974.

For the year beginning July 1, the budget called for sales to foreign countries under Title I of the Food for Peace program of $739.3 million worth of commodities, including wheat, corn and rice.

That is less than the $765.8 million for the year ending June 30. But the projected budget, while down in value, shows quantity increases for some key items, meaning that the unit prices are expected to be down.

For example: Wheat shipments under Title I in 1973-74 are expected to be 37.2 million bushels at a value of $167.3 million, according to the budget. That computes at about $4.50 per bushel.

Looking to 1974-75, the report estimated shipments under Title I — which provides for long term credit arrangements for recipient countries — will be 46.4 million bushels at a total value of $171.5 million. That figures to about $3.70 per bushel.

Those are not absolute estimates by any means, but on the surface it does show how relative prices may change as U.S. farmers move into larger harvests this year.

For corn, the current year's budget showed 9.8 million bushels valued at $27.5 million, an average of about $2.80 per bushel. Next season those sales were projected at 37 million bushels worth $83.3 million or about $2.25 per bushel.

Rice showed the largest relative tumble, based on the budget calculations. Currently, Title I shipments are put at 13.7 million hundredweight of milled rice (not the rough grain farmers sell) worth $372.8 million or about $27 per 100 pounds.

In 1974-75, the budget showed, rice shipments will be 22 million hundredweight valued at $257.9 million or about $11.70 per hundredweight.

Firemanship isn't all fires

By MARK THELLMANN
In some people's minds, a fireman is a person paid to drink coffee and smoke cigarettes all day, while awaiting the chance to rescue some acrophobic cat in a treetop.

Not so, with the men employed by the Washington C.H. Fire Department!

Along with fighting fires, (66 for the year, with an estimated monetary loss of $85,000), there were also 72 grass and trash fires to douse and 13 false alarms with which to contend.

ON TOP OF THIS, Fireman Jay E. Smith and Lt. Dave Seaman attended a 12-week course in Fire Science Technology at the Columbus Technical Institute in Columbus.

These two men spent $443 of their own money to attend the course and Lt. Seaman spent $347 of his own savings to attend classes in an earlier course; thus, $790 of firefighter's money has been spent to improve protection in the city of Washington.

ON AUG. 15, nine firemen entered a class to prepare them as "Emergency Medical Technicians." They are Lt. Bill Smith, Lt. Dave Seaman, and Firemen John Rockhold, Darrell Michael, Jim Sever, E.J. Helt, Ronnie Cox, Pat Denen and Jay Smith.

Gerstner-Kinzer Ambulance Service paid for the 60-hour course, which the men completed by passing their exams Nov. 29. They were then entitled to take the National Registry Test, which they did and all passed.

Fire Chief Joe Denen and Lt. Seaman also attended the Ohio State Fire School in 1973, at Ohio State University. Chief Denen enrolled in Fire Administration and Lt. Seaman in the Trade and Industrial Instructors course. These classes were held for eight hours a day for five days.

LAST YEAR the Washington C.H. Fire Department also had the most extensive fire prevention program in the history of the department. It reached 1,237 people during the 43 hours of public demonstrations and lectures, which took 204 hours to prepare.

The program was presented to nursing homes, schools, factories, the Rotary Club, business organizations, women's organizations, hospitals and the Washington C.H. television station.

Consequently, 1973 was one of the busiest and enriching years ever for the Washington C.H. Fire Department. All citizens should profit.

Controlling Board releases funds

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Controlling Board released $49,875 Monday for an "earth resource management" program for southeastern Ohio.

Southeastern Ohio legislators who sponsored the request said several Appalachian counties, particularly Harrison, depend almost entirely on the coal industry as a source of income.

Sen. Douglas Applegate, D-30 Steubenville, a member of the Controlling Board, said the grant would be the first phase of a study to determine a new economic base for the region.

"The art of reclamation using waste materials will also be studied, he said. The idea, he said, is to come up with something to sustain the area when coal is gone.

In other action, the board approved 4-2, with Rep. Frederick N. Young, R-38 Dayton, abstaining, a transfer of $34,000 to meet increased auto liability costs for state employees this year.

The issue hit a snag momentarily when Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, questioned whether all 55,000 state employees drove state cars. He noted the last program included only 38,000 employees.

A Department of Administrative Service spokesman said the premiums for this fiscal year, for the first time, included Department of Transportation employees. He said about 5,000 state vehicles were involved.

—$137,080 to the Board of Regents for equipment for technical and two-year colleges.

—Transfer of $2.2 million from one compensation fund to another for salary adjustments for civil service employees at universities.

—$261,268 for the emergency fund to the Ethics Commission for state and local officials for the remainder of fiscal year 1974.

—$742,300 to the Environmental Protection Agency for local air pollution control.

—$1.8 million transfer from Columbus Children's Mental Health Facility to Cincinnati Geriatric Center and release of another $2.1 million to the Cincinnati project.

—Transfer of $1.1 million from one Ohio Youth Commission fund to another, with $92,000 going from facilities maintenance to foster care.

Kent State jury appeal blocked

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A member of the Ohio National Guard involved in the Kent State University shootings said Monday he did not feel he would be indicted by a federal grand jury investigating the 1970 incident.

Sgt. I.C. Okey R. Flesher talked with newsmen after being questioned by the 23-member panel about two hours but declined to discuss his testimony. He said he was complying with a request from Justice Department attorneys directing the probe.

However, Flesher said that from the questions asked he did not believe he was a target for indictment.

Flesher, 35, was among the guardsmen who fired May 4, 1970, during a confrontation between the Guard and antiwar demonstrators in which four students were killed and nine wounded.

His attorney, C. D. Lambros, said earlier that Flesher was among the troops who fired because they felt their lives were in danger from the rock-throwing students, but that he fired warning shots over the heads of the demonstrators.

Motions to "dissolve, discharge and excuse" the grand jury were filed by Lambros last week on behalf of Flesher and James Pierce, a guardsman also involved in the shootings. The motions were dismissed Friday by U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti and Lambros said he was preparing an emergency appeal to the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati.

Battisti dismissed Lambros' motion for leave to appeal Monday morning and the attorney said that ended his attempt to halt the grand jury probe.

However, Lambros said that if any of his guardsmen clients were to be indicted by the jury he still could appeal on the grounds of violation of the constitutional guarantee of a speedy trial.

Calley appeal nixed by court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Military Appeals has declined to reconsider its earlier rejection of Lt. William L. Calley Jr.'s appeal from his conviction in the My Lai massacre case.

The court, the highest American military tribunal, on Monday upheld Calley's conviction and 20-year prison sentence.

President Nixon has said he'll pass final review on Calley, convicted of the premeditated murder of no fewer than 22 Vietnamese civilians and assault with intent to murder a Vietnamese child.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

Bridge is a game of infinite variety. On the great majority of hands you can get by with the so-called normal plays, but, if you really want to excel, you have to be continuously on guard for the exceptions, when special treatment is required. In short, you must not take familiar situations for granted and play mechanically.

Assume you're East and that your illustrious partner, bless him, leads a heart. You take the ace and return the nine, South's ten losing to West's jack. Your partner continues with the king and this is ruffed in dummy with the ten.

It is at this point that you have a chance to rise and shine. If you overruff with the jack — which is certainly the natural thing to do — declarer will later finesse you out of the king and wind up making four spades. But if you are clever enough to overruff the ten with the king — certainly an unnatural thing to do — you will almost surely defeat the contract.

Let's consider the matter from South's viewpoint after he sees you overruff with the king. He will almost surely assume your partner has the jack of trumps and, whatever you return, he is highly likely to cash the A-Q in the hope of spearing your partner's jack.

It is unlikely to even occur to declarer that you could have the jack and overruff with the king — and he will almost automatically credit your partner with the jack. That is precisely the bill of goods you should be trying to sell declarer. If he buys it, he will live to regret it.

Speaking of Your Health...

Drainage Indicates Sinusitis

Is it possible to finalize the diagnosis of sinus disease without X-rays?

Mr. F.P., Mass.

Dear Mr. P.: X-ray examination of the skull and sinuses is never done routinely. In fact, the diagnosis made by careful inspection of the nose, the nasal secretions, and naso-pharynx are often more reliable to the ear, nose and throat specialist than are X-rays.

Drainage from the antra, ethmoid and frontal sinuses is a good index of chronic sinus disease. A technique known as transillumination is used in a darkened room to learn if the sinuses are filled with fluid or are otherwise diseased.

In complicated cases, X-rays of the sinuses undoubtedly do give a great deal of information. These, in combination with the clinical judgment of long experience, determine the diagnosis and point the way to the ideal form of therapy.

I had a small growth the size of a bean on my face. My doctor insisted that I go to the hospital for this.

Why can't such things be removed right in the doctor's office?

Mr. J.B., N.J.

Dear Mr. B.: Not all doctors' offices are equipped with facilities for sterile operative procedures.

In such instances, it is extremely wise not to improvise, but rather to take advantage of the known sterility and safety devices of the hospital operating room.

It is surprising how often a relatively small growth, when removed in the doctor's office, followed by excessive bleeding that requires instruments not available in the office.

Another major advantage, of course, is the fact that the tissue removed can be immediately sent down for microscopic examination.

So what about home movies? This home movie business started shortly after the turn of the century when safety film first came out. Specifications were drawn up for a 16 mm wide film, the film was made by Eastman, the machine to perforate it came from Bell and Howell. Kodak made the camera. A few years ago I viewed the first home movie ever made. It was shot by the engineer who designed the first 16 mm camera. Believe it or not, it was a whale of a lot better than many more modern films I've seen.

Then some wise guy got the idea of splitting the 16 mm film and adding another perforation between each; thus 8 mm was born. Now movies were cheap and everybody started shooting them. That was bad. Quality went out the window, and it got so the very mention of home movies sent everyone sneaking off into the night. However, there were a few who were doing really great original work with 8 mm. Then along came super 8.

With super 8 the lenses were better, film was improved, and the picture area was greater. They had moved the perforations over to the edge and put them farther apart. Now home movies were coming of age.

The next leap forward was when Kodak brought out the XL55 and the XL53 — now, dad, you could shoot movies indoors without movie lights. No squints, no blown fuses and hot lights. Now home movies were really here.

Then last summer we were called to Cincinnati for the unveiling of the new Ektasound system. This was something else. The first stuff we saw was awful! Some lame-brain from Kodak's sales department had shot the footage and it was just what you would expect. However, some of us who were there saw that there was a potential there for the lensman who wanted to make good sound home movies. Ektasound is not for the movie snapshotter. Without some help and a bit of attention to details we'll be right back where we were in the old 8 mm days.

We here at Pensyl Camera Shop are shooting Ektasound and having lots of fun seeing just what it will do. We've been shooting sound 16 mm for about 24 years now, and sound 8 since about 1961, but this Ektasound system is by far the most practical sound for the amateur. But you will need help when you start with this new system. Maybe we can help you. Come in and see some Ektasound footage and let's talk about the sound movies in your future.

City parking program tops merchant agenda

The new parking program in downtown Washington C.H. was one of three items discussed by 20 members of the Downtown Business Association at the regular monthly meeting held Monday morning in the Chamber of Commerce office.

Ray Downing, association chairman, said there was considerable discussion regarding the changing of time limits on the new parking meters located on Court Street. The meters are now one-hour limit types and association members expressed an opinion of changing the meters to two-hour limits.

Also discussed was the possibility of establishing more short-term (15-minute) meters on Court Street, in addition to the need for downtown merchants to promote the token concept for free customer parking.

Downing said the Downtown Business Association will be corresponding with the city parking authority asking for consideration in revamping those three areas of the city's new parking program.

TRASH DISPOSAL units in the downtown business district were also discussed. The downtown area has been without trash disposal units since early January.

It was explained that the company that has been furnishing the units had a two-year lease with downtown businesses for advertising. The contract expired and has not been renewed.

The merchants have agreed to work with city officials in obtaining new disposal units. City Manager Dan Wolford, who attended the association meeting, was asked to obtain various price information and styles of new disposal units and report back to the association for approval and participation.

The city's new taxicab service was also discussed by association members. City Council awarded a taxicab franchise agreement to a partnership of four Washington C.H. area businessmen at a special meeting held last Wednesday night.

The association members expressed their pleasure that taxicab service is in the process of being restored after the service was discontinued here effective Jan. 1.

Members discussed the possibility of some businesses purchasing coupons that will give customers reduced taxicab rates.

Downing said the project is still in its preliminary stages and it is not known what the actual participation in the proposed program will be.

Vandalism, check cases investigated

City police have charged a Washington C.H. man with two counts of forgery, investigated a vandalism incident in which a car was pelted with eggs and received reports of two more bad checks.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported three bad checks.

Charles Everett Tillis, Jr., 18, of 513 S. Fayette St., was charged with two counts of forgery, by police, for passing two bad checks: Han. 28-$12.75 and Jan. 23-$15, at Lynch News Stand, 101 S. Main St.

A car owned by Jack Milburn, 604 Belle Aire Place, was pelted with at least a dozen eggs, sometime Saturday or Sunday night while it was parked in front of his residence. Police are investigating the incident.

Steen's Department Store reported two bad checks which were passed on Dec. 11, one for $12.48 and the other for $56.14.

Sheriff's deputies reported three bad checks passed at Ritt's Pizza, at the corner of Highland Avenue and W. Elm Street; Jan. 29-$15, Jan. 15-$25 and Jan. 18 - $20.

Blaze causes heavy damage

Firemen said the blaze when a tractor engine being serviced in the building began throwing sparks, igniting the ceiling.

There were no injuries.

Columbus police chief speaks at WCH Kiwanis Club meet

Columbus Police Chief Earl Burden, formerly of Washington C.H., gave members of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club a capsule view of the Columbus Police Department following the organization's weekly dinner meeting Monday night in the Lafayette Inn.

Burden, who rose from the rank of rookie motorcycle officer to chief in a period of 20 years, told the Kiwanians and a number of guests that only one of 100 applicants is accepted for the Columbus Police Department after successfully completing Civil Service and polygraph examinations.

He explained that prospective officers then undergo a six-month course at the Columbus Police Academy. Following study at the academy, the officer candidates are required to attend a tough military-type recruit training, followed by a guidance method of instruction that teaches the trainee to make his own decisions. After a probationary period during which the trainees are coached by a senior officer, the officer candidates are then ready for actual police duty.

Burden, who was named chief of the Columbus Police Department to replace former Chief Dwight W. Joseph, who retired April 3, 1972, pointed out that because of the women's liberation movement more and more women are applying for admission to the police training program.

THE GUEST speaker mentioned briefly that the public expects a police officer to be all things to all people and that the vast majority of an officer's time is spent on service calls rather than on investigation of crimes.

Two new offices were created after club members voted to amend two sections of the club constitution. The two new offices are assistant secretary and assistant treasurer. They will be filled by Mrs. Ann Fabb and Mrs. Mary Jones.

APPROXIMATELY 60 persons attended the club's first meeting of the year. Presenting their views on offices being sought at the May primary election were Mrs. Rita Toivonen, wife of the field director for Sen. Joseph F. Hiestand, of Hillsboro, and Beverly Anne Bingle, a Democratic candidate for Secretary of State.

Miss Bingle asked Democratic Club members to join the effort to open up the election process in the people of Ohio. "The ordinary citizen is locked out of the voting booth and priced out of the political market. Thousands of voters wait outside the polls on election day because Ted Brown has failed in his duty to administer the election laws, she said.

Miss Bingle, who resides in Columbus, also called for a series of vote reform laws, including statewide registration, permanent registration and longer voting hours.

Club members also announced preliminary plans for the March 18 dinner in the Terrace Lounge. Ticket for the dinner may be purchased from club officers or members of the Democratic Central Committee.

Name sheriff in findings for money

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state auditor today announced findings for recovery of $26,031 against Greene County Sheriff Russell A. Bradley and his clerk, Leona Eaton, for improperly accounted for funds and unsupported expenditures.

Most of the unsupported expenditures came from the sheriff's Youth Activities fund, including $3,844 in checks made out to Bradley and $4,700 in checks to the clerk the auditor said.

Another $12,450 was listed as expenditures unrelated to the purpose of the fund, the report said.

The audit of the Youth Activities Fund was from Aug. 16, 1961, when it was created, through May 24 of last year.

The auditor's report also listed $5,035 as an error in depositing funds from advertising proceeds from the publication of two drug abuse manuals.

The money should have been deposited with the Greene County Treasury instead of a Xenia bank, the report said.

Bradley has maintained the money was legitimately deposited and spent.

Shutdown continues as solution is sought

Trucking talks resume

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The independent truckers' shutdown spread over more than three-fourths of the nation today, prompting more layoffs and bringing new reports of violence.

An independent driver manning a blockade near Wilmington, N.C., was shot in the stomach and seriously wounded early today, police said. It was one of the few reports of injury stemming from the violence that has marked the six-day-old protest.

Federal and state officials and truckers' representatives tried without success to reach a compromise that could end the owner-drivers' protest over fuel prices and freight rates.

The shutdown or its effects reached at least 39 states. Shootings, tire slashings or rock throwings were reported late Monday night or early today in Louisiana, Rhode Island, Indiana, Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania as well as in North Carolina.

The number of layoffs reported in industries unable to get supplies or ship finished products topped 75,000. There were warnings that food shortages would start showing up at the retail level shortly.

Truckers blocking fuel deliveries caused problems for schools in some areas where buses couldn't get gas.

Sources close to the negotiations in Washington had indicated Monday night that agreement on a compromise plan was near, but the session broke up early today without a solution. Talks were scheduled to resume later in the day.

The compromise plan reportedly involved 11 points which the truckers

In Maryland, police reported three separate incidents in which trucks were fired on Monday, but there were no injuries, officers said. One driver suffered eye injuries when a rock was thrown through the windshield of his truck as he crossed a bridge in Baltimore, police said.

In Oklahoma, protesting truckers blocked truck traffic on U.S. 69 near Big Cabin for four hours Monday before police ended the traffic tie-up. One driver was arrested.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp authorized the use of $1 million in state funds to deal with the strike after issuing a "Proclamation of Extreme Emergency." Shapp said 50,000 workers in the state have been laid off by the shutdown and predicted the total would hit 350,000 by the end of the week if the protests continued.

More than 17,000 auto workers were laid off in nine plants in Wisconsin,

Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Ohio as parts deliveries dwindled to a trickle because of the shutdown. The layoffs were projected to last from one day to a week.

In West Virginia, at least 3,500 persons were out of work in glass and electrical plants because of supply shortages.

The National Association of Food Chains said in Washington that most food stores have enough meat and produce to supply normal consumer demand.

But the American Meat Institute reported slaughter was down sharply because of the truckers' action. A spokesman said 19 per cent fewer cattle were killed Monday than one week ago and hog slaughter was down 39 per cent from last week.

Chicken production was also threatened, and the National Poultry Council said 35 per cent of all U.S.

broiler processing plants would not open their doors today. Twice that number would be affected by Wednesday if the truckers' action continued.

States like Ohio and Pennsylvania in the busy transportation corridor between the East Coast and the Midwest have felt the worst of the trouble. Western states generally have been quieter.

The Colorado shutdown was reported peaceful but was causing serious disruptions in the meatpacking industry, including the closing of the Monfort packing plant in Greeley, one of the largest in the West. About 980 employees were laid off at least through today.

In Utah, some truck stops were closed along Interstate 80. Jeff Woods, oil tanker driver and representative of Overdrive Magazine which has sponsored the shutdown, said drivers were avoiding violence.

Britain faces nationwide coal walkout

LONDON (AP) — Britain's coal miners decided today to begin a national strike from midnight Saturday, plunging the troubled British economy into a deepening crisis.

The decision was taken by the executive of the National Union of Mineworkers, which represents 280,000 men. It was announced by the union president, Joe Gormley.

Gormley addressed newsmen after he turned down a last-minute plea from Employment Secretary William Whitelaw who had asked for a meeting between government negotiators and union leaders.

The 27-man leadership of the miners union was meeting to decide whether to order the strike approved by the miners in a referendum last week.

Whitelaw wanted the meeting to plead once more with the union leaders that a miners' walkout will spell disaster for a Britain already struggling under the energy crisis and gigantic foreign trade deficits.

Confident that there will be a strike, Gormley said, "I can't see any useful purpose in meeting Mr. Whitelaw and we would not have any time anyway."

Coal supplies 70 per cent of the nation's electricity and the government says even with nonessential industry on a three-day work week, the power stations have stocks enough to last them only until the end of March. An even shorter work week is expected if the miners go out.

Plane crashes; at least 2 die

CYNTHIANA, Ky. (AP) — At least two persons were killed today when a private twin engine plane crashed and burned on a farm about four miles southeast of here, State Police said.

Officers said they could see two bodies in the wreckage but could not examine it further because of intense heat.

File charges in 3 slayings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Suburban Worthington police said they have filed three murder charges against Clifford Chase, 19, in the slayings of his parents and younger brother.

Chase was to be arraigned in Columbus Municipal Court today on the charges, said police Capt. M. D. Alexich. He said Chase was being kept at the Franklin County Jail.

Robert C. Chase, 41, and wife, Joan, 42, and younger son, Robert, 17, were found shot to death Monday at the family's plush home in the suburb north of Columbus.

Chase, an instructor in preventive medicine at the Ohio State University College of Medicine and associate director of the biometrics laboratory, was sprawled in the winding rear driveway of the home. Police said he had been shot in the right side of the face.

Mrs. Chase was found lying in a hallway near the kitchen with a bullet wound in the back of the head and Robert, shot once in the middle of the back, was lying in the dining room.

No murder weapon was found at the scene.

Clifford Chase, who police said was a high school dropout and unemployed, was arrested at his apartment.

Americans want Ford takeover

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Forty-six per cent of Americans surveyed would prefer to have Vice President Gerald R. Ford finish the remainder of President Nixon's second term, the latest Gallup Poll shows.

The survey, taken Jan. 18-24, showed 46 per cent preferring Ford over Nixon, 32 per cent choosing Nixon and 22 per cent expressing no preference.

Ohio Assembly pushes pre-election recess

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Leaders of 111th Ohio General Assembly are talking about a legislative recess beginning April 4 and continuing until May 8, the day after the primary election.

The purpose would be to give most of the lawmakers, seeking re-election, time to campaign for re-election back in their home districts.

All 99 House seats are at stake this year since that chamber's members serve two-terms. Seventeen of the thirty-three senators are up for re-election. They serve four-year terms, with half being elected every two years. The odd-numbered Senate seats are up for grabs this year.

Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, said the House Rules Committee discussed the prospective recess and indicated agreement, but that he still must confer with Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, R-3 Columbus.

Lancione said if the recess is agreed to, the House and Senate would hold skeleton sessions from week to week in order to meet statutory requirements for keeping the lawmakers in session. State lawmakers traditionally have taken time off for campaigning during election years.

Both chambers resume floor sessions at 1:30 p.m. today with the House slated to vote on a bill that would permit the teaching of venereal disease problems in grades seven through 12.

Senators called for a floor vote on a House-passed emergency bill to take from Ohio statutes a requirement for the election of a 19-day U.S. senator this year. Unless the law is repealed, Ohioans would have to elect a short term senator in November to serve only from Dec. 15 until Jan. 3, 1975, when the candidate elected to a full, six-year term would be qualified and sworn in.

Much of this week's activity is expected to center about committee hearings, including Senate consideration of Housepassed no fault insurance measure. A motorist could collect from his own insurance company in the event of an accident, if damages do not exceed a set limit, under the measure.

In other business, the Senate Finance Committee will give a second hearing Tuesday afternoon to a bill that would require the state to operate on annual budgets—instead of having the legislature appropriate funds two years in advance. The same panel will continue consideration of another measure that would add four legislators to the nine-member Ohio Board of Regents.

Also on Tuesday afternoon, the Senate Judiciary Committee is scheduled to resume hearing on a House-passed bill to regulate abortions in Ohio. Extensive changes are expected to be recommended by a subcommittee which has been studying the proposal for the past three weeks.

The Senate Agriculture, Conservation, and Environment Committee scheduled a hearing at 9:30 a.m.

Wednesday on a resolution calling on Congress to repeal the new federal Daylight Saving Time law.

Wednesday night the Senate Education and Health Committee will call for testimony on a measure that would allow Ohio school districts to lease buses to non-public schools.

The administration's emergency energy bill comes up for a second hearing Wednesday night before the House Select Committee on Energy. That proposal met with substantial Republican opposition last week with some GOP lawmakers claiming the legislation would give "excessive" powers to the governor to deal with an energy crisis not yet sufficiently defined.

Chairman James P. Celebrezze, D-4 Cleveland, of the House Transportation Committee said he expects that panel to recommend passage Wednesday morning of an emergency bill conforming Ohio speed laws to the new federal limit of 55 miles per hour.

Sunnyside School: slated for closing

City middle school OK'd; Sunnyside building to close

Sunnyside Elementary School will not be used by city students during the 1974-75 school year as a result of action taken by the Washington C.H. Board of Education Monday night.

After extensive studies of a proposal to create a middle school (sixth-eighth graders), the board approved the proposal for Washington C.H. schools next year. Included in the plan to offer students a better environment for learning and to make more efficient use of school facilities was the closing of the elementary school.

THE BOARD authorized the purchase of a new school bus, and will look into the feasibility of purchasing an additional smaller school bus and a video tape recorder. A decision on the two proposed items will be highly affect by whether or not the state will provide matching funds for such purchases.

Under the plan for the 1974-75 school year, sixth graders will be transferred to the present junior high building with seventh and eighth graders. These three grades would eventually be offered courses which would combine one or more "subject" under a more general topic.

Freshmen will attend Washington Senior High School where some sophomore courses would be available to them. This is especially important to those freshmen who fail one or more ninth grade courses. While they could retake courses they failed, they can also take sequel courses to those they passed.

First through fifth grade students currently attending Sunnyside school will be transferred to Belle Aire and Eastside. This, in addition to the savings in fuel and custodial costs as well as not hiring personnel to fill two teaching vacancies, income can be generated by renting the building to any educational organization with whom a satisfactory agreement can be negotiated. Savings to the system has been estimated in excess of $25,000, and this money will be used to improve the resources of the other six schools.

The board approved a $500 expenditure by the Athletic Council for the purchase of new all-metal hurdles for the track team. The new hurdles will adjust to four heights, including a middle height which will be used in inter-scholastic competition next year.

Mrs. Jack Marti, 512 Columbus Ave., questioned the board whether or not there were any plans for renovation of the high school track facilities at Gardner Park. Although the board agreed that the track and field facilities were in deplorable condition, they said that there were no immediate plans for an extensive renovation project.

The track facilities, they said, will be

Rollback dispute hits energy bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price rollback issue is developing into the newest controversy as Congress tries to agree on energy legislation.

While Senate-House conferees on the emergency energy bill were deciding in favor of rolling back the price of some domestic crude oil, Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz was telling the House Ways and Means Committee Monday that he's firmly against a rollback.

During the Ways and Means Committee's hearing on oil tax reform proposals, however, federal energy chief William E. Simon appeared to show at least some flexibility on rollback points. But, talking later to reporters, Simon insisted he's not clashing with Shultz.

Shultz and Simon, the Nixon administration's chief tax and energy officials, spent most of Monday explaining the details of the new proposals to the taxwriting House Committee.

Meanwhile, Senate-House conferees on the emergency energy legislation approved a proposal to roll back the price of some domestic crude oil — aides said it would apply to roughly 29 per cent of oil produced in the United States.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., author of the provision, said administration officials estimate the rollback would lower the price of gasoline at the pump by 5½ cents. After the rollback to $5.25 a barrel, prices could be increased only as a result of higher costs and would not exceed a $7.09 ceiling per barrel.

The White House would have 30 days in which to ask Congress to exempt certain categories of oil from the rollback and price ceiling provisions, if it found that the lowered price would reduce supply. The emergency bill also would give the President power to order gasoline rationing and other energy conservation measures.

At the Ways and Means Committee, meantime, Shultz took a strong stand against a rollback in present crude oil prices, despite indications from elsewhere in the administration that such a step may be under study. Shultz termed it "a very poor idea" that would dampen new investment, switch profits from the United States to abroad, and would not — in the long run — give consumers cheaper petroleum products.

Specifically, Shultz and Simon urged enactment of a temporary tax that would drain windfall profits from the recent boosts in crude oil prices. The levy would phase out if price levels stabilize during the coming years.

They also proposed to deny U.S. oil producers the depreciation allowance on crude oil produced abroad and to slash the extent to which payment of taxes to foreign countries may be used to offset U.S. taxes on other foreign-generated income.

When Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., acting chairman of the House panel, asked about how close the nation might be to gasoline rationing, Simon said that, with help from the weather and cooperation by the American people, "we're holding our own."

"Shortages are still of a spot nature

and don't justify implementing a rationing system for 50 states.... We've got a better than 50-50 chance of beating rationing."

Simon also urged motorists to stay away from the gasoline pumps unless they need at least $3 worth of gasoline. He said the minimum purchase would help reduce the long lines at gasoline stations.

In New Jersey, Gov. Brendan T. Byrne said he would exercise emergency powers to implement a gasoline allocation system intended to ease critical shortages.

And Amoco Oil Co. announced gasoline price reductions of two cents a gallon and of one cent a gallon for heating oil and residual fuels. The cutbacks are in accordance with government's pricing formulas which provide for adjustments in product prices as changes occur in the availability and costs of crude oil and purchased products.

Ohioans paid to leave state

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Last year the state paid 1,066 persons an average of $60 a week to look for work in Florida, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services reports.

The bureau said most probably were looking for construction work or resort jobs.

Altogether, the OBES reported, it paid $5,266,555 to out-of-state-recipients in 1973, or about five per cent of the $108.5 million total unemployment compensation paid during the year.

Nixon biggest deficit spender

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once a firm advocate of the balanced budget, Richard M. Nixon has turned out to be the greatest deficit spender in the White House since Franklin D. Roosevelt.

His red-ink record is a product of a fundamental change in his economic thinking and an economy that is much more complex, with the dollar worth much less, than a generation ago.

Since Nixon took office in 1969, the government has overspent its revenues by $63.4 billion. The total red ink will reach about $68 billion when the fiscal 1974 year ends June 30, according to federal budget officials.

On top of that, Nixon's proposed budget for fiscal 1975 calls for a $9.4 billion deficit, which would push the total of his deficit spending to $77.4 billion by June 30, 1975.

Lyndon B. Johnson ranks closest to Nixon for deficit spending in the years since the heavy World War II wartime deficits. Johnson had federal budget deficits totaling a net $45.1 billion from 1964 to 1969.

President John F. Kennedy was in office two fiscal years, 1962 and 1963, and had deficits both times totaling $11.8 billion.

Kiger files as candidate for prosecuting attorney

James A. Kiger, 622 Van Deman St., who was appointed by the Fayette County Republican Central Committee Jan. 17 to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Otis Hess Jr. as Fayette County prosecuting attorney, has filed his petitions with the Fayette County Board of Elections as a candidate for the prosecutor post, subject to the Republican May primary.

Kiger had been appointed as interim prosecuting attorney by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners before the Republican Central Committee confirmed the selection.

The resignation of Hess and Assistant Prosecutor Robert Simpson, who had served in the capacity as the county's legal counsel for one year, was triggered by differences in the budget request made by the prosecutor's office and the amount of money the commissioners were willing to allocate.

Kiger, whose office is located at 132 S. Main St., resigned as city solicitor effective Dec. 31 after serving in that position for the past five years. He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati and the University of Kentucky. He opened his law practice in Washington C.H. 12 years ago. Kiger has served two terms as president of the Fayette County Bar Association and has been admitted to practice

He will be seeking election to fill the unexpired term of Hess. The term ends Dec. 31, 1977.

Close photographs of Venus to come from Mariner 10

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists are set for their first close-up look at the clouds surrounding Venus as Mariner 10 glides by the planet and beams photos back to earth.

The pictures from nearly 27.5 million miles out in space were to be taken today as the 1,108-pound spacecraft moves to a point about 3,585 miles from Venus.

Two cameras were to start operating about 30 minutes before Mariner comes its closest to the Venus and will continue taking pictures for the next 17 days.

As Mariner moves closer to Venus, the planet's gravity is expected to slow the spacecraft down and allow the sun's gravity to bend Mariner's course, heading it toward its prime target, Mercury.

Launched last Nov. 3, Mariner has traveled a roundabout route of 107 million miles to reach Venus, photographing earth, the moon and the comet Kohoutek along the way.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory say they do not expect to see the scalding surface of Venus because of the thick cloak of clouds. Temperatures on Venus are 800 to 900 degrees.

But the scientists said they hoped the information provided by the photos and other experiments aboard Mariner will teach them more about the Venusian atmosphere. They said such knowledge might help meteorologists better understand atmospheric conditions on earth.

House, Dwight D. Eisenhower had deficits of $15.8 billion.

Harry S. Truman overspent federal revenues by a net $1.5 billion.

Johnson had the largest postwar deficit, $25.1 billion in fiscal 1968, as he tried to finance the Vietnam war and Great Society.

Even though Nixon has had two deficits reaching close to that amount, $23 billion in fiscal 1971 and $23.2 billion a year later, Nixon economists say Johnson's 1968 deficit was highly inflationary while Nixon's were not.

The reason, they say, is that the Nixon deficits have not gone beyond the amount of money that would flow into the Treasury if the unemployment rate were 4 per cent, the unofficial definition of full employment. They say Johnson's did go beyond this theoretical balance.

Nixon decided to adopt the full-employment budget concept for fiscal 1972. He said that approach guaranteed that deficit spending would help achieve high employment while not triggering inflation.

The inflationary boom of 1973 led Nixon to return, temporarily, to the "old-time religion of a balanced budget." But, by the time this fiscal year ends, the deficit will still be $4.6 billion.

Astronomer Michael J. Belton, a member of the team that will analyze the pictures, told newsmen that until now scientists have not known for certain whether the Venus clouds are layered or how one layer might differ chemically from another.

He said that, based on information collected by two previous Mariners and four Soviet satellites, it appears at least some of the clouds are made up mainly of sulfuric acid droplets. He said the Venusian atmosphere appears to be about 97 per cent carbon dioxide, compared with .03 per cent on earth.

Village services eyed by Council at New Holland

NEW HOLLAND — Village services topped the agenda of the New Holland Council Monday as members discussed police protection, street equipment, a clean-up campaign, and payment of bills related to the proposed sewage treatment plant.

Although the council has collected some $15,000 in tap-in fees for the new treatment plant, members decided to table the payment of a $7,500 bill from SEICO, the engineering corporation which had nearly completed feasibility and planning studies. An additional bill for $26,000 recently was presented by SEICO, and the council would like to have all the bills in hand before paying any.

The possibility that one or more men would be available for part-time service as New Holland police officers was discussed by the council, and these individuals will be contacted before any decision is made concerning a New Holland Police Department.

George Hott, a member of the street committee, suggested that the council consider the purchase of some new equipment, and the council asked that he check what equipment was most necessary and get price estimates before any action was taken.

Some residents had complained of litter, tree trimmings, and untrimmed trees detracting from the beauty of the New Holland area, and council decided to issue a clean-up notice to residents while investigating the legal recourse which could be taken against those who refused to comply.

Spock wants Nixon out

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Benjamin Spock, the outspoken American pediatrician, Monday night called for the impeachment of President Nixon.

"There is no question in my mind Nixon should be impeached," he told an assembly here. "Impeachment does not mean a conviction, but it can keep him from inchoating on powers of the different branches of government."

Snow was expected across Ohio today, beginning in the west and spreading across the entire state by this evening. Accumulations of two or three inches were expected in northern counties.

The snow is being triggered by a low pressure area moving into the state from the plains.

The snow is expected to change to rain in the south late tonight and over the remainder of the state Wednesday. Temperatures will rise slowly tonight and Wednesday, with highs Wednesday generally in the 30s.

It was quite cold over Ohio Monday with occasional light snow. Highs ranged from 17 at Toledo to 27 at Zanesville. Precipitation totaled no more than a few hundredths of an inch.

Skies cleared overnight, but began clouding again in the west before sunrise. Lows plunged to around zero in the northwest to around 20 near the river.

A chance of snow is forecast for Thursday and again on Saturday. Skies will be fair Friday. Highs will range in the upper 20s and the 30s. Lows will be in the upper teens and the 20s.

Cold clings to northern parts of U. S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold weather clung to most of the nation from the Rockies to the Atlantic today and drove temperatures into the frosty 30s as far south as the Florida Panhandle.

The mercury settled to 18 at Lansing, Mich., Monday night to tie a 62-year-old record for Feb. 4 there.

Readings in the single figures chilled the entire northern tier of states from North Dakota to New England. Temperatures slid into the lower 20s from the middle Mississippi Valley through the Virginias, and frost or freeze warnings were in effect overnight for northern Florida.

Snow sifted into scattered areas from the interior Pacific Northwest to the Great Lakes and the Ohio Valley. Light snow also dusted some inland communities of the Northeast.

Travel advisories were issued for parts of North Dakota for up to 4 inches of snow. Gusty winds and moderate blowing snow also was expected to cause locally hazardous conditions in Minnesota.

Clear skies favored most of the eastern third of the country and the broad region from the Southwest to the Southeast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 15 at Lansing, Mich., to 67 at Key West, Fla.

Motorist raps Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — "You'll never see me in Florida again," a disgusted Bob Byerly of Columbus, Ohio, said Monday as he and his wife started back home after finding some gasoline stations closed and others with long lines.

The couple turned around in Tampa instead of continuing to their planned destination of Miami.

Byerly said they decided to drive to the sunshine state after reading that Florida Gov. Reubin Askew had assured tourists that plenty of gasoline was available.

"Then we get here and run into this," Byerly said, referring to the station closings and lineups that caused the federal government to order an emergency gasoline supply be sent to Florida.

"It's a damn shame," Byerly said. "If you can't believe the governor, who can you believe?"

Kremlin summit meet pushed by President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has quickened the pace of preparations for an early summer Kremlin summit, ranging over plans for a return to Moscow and key international issues in talks with visiting Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who hosted a dinner for Gromyko Monday night, arranged for further talks with the veteran diplomat today at the Soviet Embassy before he departs for his homeland.

In a two-hour White House meeting Monday, Nixon and Gromyko discussed the East and European issues and current U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation Talks, according to Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren.

Describing the session as "very useful and extensive and cordial," Warren said Nixon and Gromyko also "talked of this year's projected meeting between the President and General Secretary Brezhnev in the Soviet Union."

Warren would not give a date for the trip, but The Associated Press reported Saturday that tentative plans called for it to take place in June. Before then,

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed today after an earlier downward drift.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down nearly 4 points earlier, was up 2.58 at 824.08 at noon, while declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by 3 to 2.

Larry Wachtel, an analyst with Bache & Co., said investors were worrying about the impact of the truckers' strike and the continuing oil embargo, which shows no sign of letup despite recent assurances from the Nixon administration. Also causing concern, brokers said, were inflation, unemployment, the slowing economy, and Watergate.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index at noon was off .14 at 95.36, while the NYSE composite index was up .08 at 50.

Gold stocks were up as the price of gold rose in world markets. Homestake Mining was up 2 1/2 to 94 1/2; Day Mines rose 1/2 to 17 1/2, and Giant Yellowknife was up 3/4 to 24 1/2.

4 men slain in shootout at Mosque

NEW YORK (AP)—Four men, including two Muslim ministers, were killed and a fifth man critically wounded when several black gunmen invaded a Brooklyn mosque and opened fire, police reported.

Police said they believed the shooting Monday night was provoked by a feud between different Muslim factions.

Slain in the gunfire at the Ya Sin Mosque in Brooklyn's predominantly black Bedford-Stuyvesant section were Abdullah Rahman, 36, the leader of the mosque, and Muhammed Ahmed, 30, identified by police as another minister.

Rahman died at the scene. Ahmed died shortly afterwards of chest wounds at Brooklyn Jewish Hospital.

Also dead when police reached the mosque were men tentatively identified as Peter Jeffries and Ed Mason, both of the Bronx. Police said Jeffries and Mason, both wearing heavy winter jackets, apparently were among the gunmen who burst into the mosque.

Another mosque member, identified as Jamil Haqq, was reported in critical condition at Brooklyn Jewish Hospital. According to police, the mosque was part of the Sunni Muslim movement, whose adherents claim to be more orthodox in their practice of Islam than the Black Muslims, who follow the teachings of Elijah Muhammad.

Asst. Police Chief James Sullivan said about the shooting: "We've made a determination after sitting down and sorting things out that it's an inter-factional thing."

Mrs. Alioto back home; still puzzle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto's wife, who disappeared Jan. 18, has telephoned her husband to say that she is safe.

Alioto and his wife, Angelina, planned to be reunited today, probably in San Francisco, a spokesman for the mayor said late Monday night.

sources said, Nixon hopes to visit Europe.

Warren singled out the European security conference as one of the subjects discussed by Nixon and Gromyko. He would not give details on what was covered when the two discussed the Middle East.

But, earlier, after Gromyko and Kissinger ended two hours of talks at the State Department, Gromyko acknowledged that they discussed prospects of an Israeli-Syrian troop disengagement.

A State Department spokesman also said Kissinger and Gromyko had taken up the issue of East German pressure on access to West Berlin. The United States formally protested after weekend travel to West Berlin was hampered by what the East Germans described as spot checks for criminals.

Officials at both the White House and the State Department said the subject of Cuba had not come up in Gromyko's talks.

The foreign minister came to the United States Sunday after accompanying Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev on a six-day visit to Fidel Castro's Communist island.

Commission continues ditch project hearing

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday afternoon established a date for receiving bids for two new cruisers for the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Commissioners will open bids for the two new cruisers at 11 a.m. Monday, March 4 in their office.

The board continued the first public hearing on the proposed Indian Creek ditch project. The first public hearing originally was scheduled to be held Monday afternoon, and the hearing was extended until 2 p.m. Feb. 25.

Fourteen persons attended the scheduled first hearing on the Indian Creek ditch project, but commissioners extended the hearing because they needed more information from Charles Wagner, Fayette County engineer.

The project, which calls for the construction of a new ditch, involves 3,600 acres in Wayne Township and affects nearly 140 landowners. The proposed ditch construction was petitioned to the commissioners by William Shepard, Willard Parrett, Dr. Joseph Herbert and Lucille Braden.

In other matters, commissioners authorized O.M. Riegel, Fayette County welfare director, to attend an Ohio Welfare Directors meeting in Columbus Wednesday.

Reginald (Chink) Davis, county dog warden, submitted 21 reports for the week.

Seek help from Guard in walkout

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP)— Mayor James Puckett is awaiting an answer from Gov. John J. Gilligan to his request for Ohio National Guard assistance in the face of a walkout by the city's police and firemen.

Puckett requested the assistance of the guard Monday night. He said he was told the governor would respond to the request sometime today.

A Stark County Common Pleas Court judge granted a temporary injunction against the men, but the walkout continued.

The various stations were being manned by commanding officers. Puckett said he has received assistance from the Stark County Sheriff's office and the Ohio Highway Patrol. However, he added, with the truckers strike going on and with the limited command officers available it is almost impossible to cope with all the calls for assistance.

The men began calling in sick early Monday morning after they rejected a city pay offer that called for pay hikes of $624 a year, plus fringes.

Court imposes check sentence

A Jeffersonville man pleaded guilty in Common Pleas Court Friday to a charge of cashing a forged check while knowing the check was forged.

He was sentenced to a term of one to five years in the Ohio State Reformatory, but after imposing sentence, Judge Evelyn W. Coffman suspended it in favor of three-year probation with Sheriff Don Thompson.

David M. Creech, 19, Jeffersonville, also was fined $100 on the charged filed by the Sheriff's Department. He had been arrested Jan. 9.

"I have never heard of anything like this," the magistrate added. "At least one of these boys has living parents. No investigation was made by the court. Within a few days, custody was granted."

The mother of one of the boys filed charges against Bloch in Virginia when she discovered her son missing from the school, Makely said. He did not identify the parent.

Judge Phillips told the newspaper he did not check with the school before issuing the custody order because "I've known Dan Bloch favorably for 15 years."

Bloch formerly operated a boys camp in the Clearwater area, the judge said.

"Dan told me in court that the school is a real snakepit," Judge Phillips said. "I would not return the boys to that school."

Controls needed beyond April 30?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is expected to tell Congress that it is lifting wage and price controls as rapidly as possible, but can't do it all by April 30, sources report.

It also is likely to propose continuing controls for an indefinite period in some problem areas, especially the health industry, and possibly also in the construction and food industries, the sources say.

The present legislative authority for wage and price controls expires April 30 and all controls would automatically end on that date unless Congress extended the authority.

Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council is scheduled to reveal the administration's position on the future of controls when he appears Wednesday before the Senate Banking

Committee's subcommittee on productivity and stabilization.

Although President Nixon and top administration economists are unanimously agreed that most wage and price controls should be lifted eventually, the administration's position on what will happen after April 30 has been a closely guarded secret.

But President Nixon outlined administration policy in his State of the Union message, saying he will "pursue a policy of gradual, selective decontrol except in particularly troublesome areas."

Council sources say that, although the administration would like to end most controls by April 30, it probably has decided it cannot for fear of what would happen to prices. Instead the administration may ask Congress for some control authority to continue after April 30.

The food area is considered particularly dangerous for 1974, and the administration is said to be anxious to avoid any big new boom in prices that would cause new demands in Congress and from the public for reimposition of a comprehensive controls program.

For this reason, sources say, it may decide to continue controls in the food area and in construction and the health industry, including hospitals and doctors and dentists.

Frustration whompers

The truth of the observation that people are funnier than anybody draws new support from word about the Bataca. This device is a foam rubber cudgel meant to permit married couples to take out their frustrations by whacking each other in moments of domestic crisis without causing grievous bodily harm.

A subsidiary purpose, we are assured by the manufacturer and chief tub-thumper for the bataca, is to allow other members of family groups similar satisfaction. The presumption is that parents and children, say, or spouses and in-laws may want to flail away at each other from time to time.

The supplier of batacas, Richard Epstein of Venice, Calif., recently told delegates to the California State Psychological Association that he has sold many of the bats to psychologists around the country. His thesis (whether or not it is accepted by the aforementioned psychologists we are not prepared to say) is that the batacas "permit a safe, satisfying release for anger, hostility, frustration and excess energy."

We remain not wholly convinced of the therapeutic value of the gadget. Reflection suggests that a whomp over the head, while releasing the whomper's anger, hostility and so forth, might have the undesired result of reinforcing such sentiments in the whompee.

As must often be said when new fields of study are being explored, further research and experiment is needed.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by Bayard Rustin

The priorities of blacks

Editor's note: John Roche is traveling. His guest columnist today is Bayard Rustin, director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute and distinguished leader of the civil rights movement over the past quarter century.

What are the most serious problems black people face?

If asked this question a few years ago, many whites would doubtlessly have answered that the problems were measurably different from those confronting the rest of society. Whereas poor people and the working class have traditionally suffered from unemployment, bad housing, lack of access to education, run-down, crime-infested neighborhoods and other inequities built into the economic order, blacks, it was thought, suffered above all else from the racist attitudes of individual whites.

The belief that personal attitudes were more important than economic injustice was reflected in the reaction to the Kerner Commission Report. Despite its explicit condemnation of the racist behavior of institutions — as opposed to the racist sentiments of individuals — the report was widely interpreted as a call for whites to look inward.

Unhappily, the commission's findings were made public at precisely the moment that America could least afford to indulge in self-analysis. Ghettos were burning, and the country was traumatized by racial disorder.

Black people were intensely disillusioned — not so much because of the persistence of individual prejudice — but because government was failing to follow through on its promises to remake our economic and social structure.

NOW the New York Times has published a study which, while not exploring racial problems so comprehensively as the Kerner Commission, presents a more accurate reflection of what black people want. Its significance lies in its findings that the problems have of blacks and the problems of whites are basically the same and, moreover, that these problems have almost nothing to do with attitudes or prejudices.

Both blacks and whites, for instance, were more concerned about crime than any other social ill; blacks, if anything, were more emphatic in their feelings about law and order. Both agree that the other most important problems were housing, drug addiction and transportation. They agreed that the rich, the corporations, landlords and organized crime received preferential treatment from government.

And while about one of every five blacks acknowledged to having been victimized by discrimination, almost none listed racial bias as the most important problem they faced.

In only one respect did the survey find strong racial differences. This was government programs — such as busing or the placement of low-income housing in middle-income neighborhoods — to further integration. Otherwise, blacks and whites expressed very much the same attitudes toward social problems, institutions, and what ought to be the priorities of government.

What has been written here is in no way meant to minimize the awful spiritual and psychological toll which prejudice exacts from our society. Nor is it my intention to deny that racist attitudes can and certainly do determine the policies of government and the functioning of institutions.

BUT THE PRIMARY answer to America's racial problems is economic and political, not psychological. Blacks recognize this; the challenge, therefore, is to drive the point home, as emphatically and often as possible, to all Americans who are concerned about inequality.

If we have learned any thing from recent experience, it is that social myths can infect the entire political system. As long as racism was the principal enemy, concerted, interracial political action was impossible. And to the degree that the nation turned inward, the more likely it was to believe that "government programs don't make any difference."

We would be much better off today if we had attacked the basic problems about which the majority of Americans are concerned. For in the mobilization of a coalition of the majority of Americans who need social change lies the solution to polarization and hate. And in the resolution of these problems lies the ultimate answer to racism.

Teacher strike hits Wellston

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — The 111 teachers in Wellston's four public schools planned to strike today to protest a board of education decision not to renew the contracts of the district's six administrators.

Shortly after members of the Wellston Teachers Association voted for the strike action Monday night, nonteaching employees who belong to the Ohio Association of Public School Employees decided to honor their picket lines.

The school board's action culminates a long dispute between the board and administrators. The board also decided to investigate the legality of the school superintendent's five-year contract. About 2,000 pupils attend the four schools.

Authorities reduced the charge from murder, they said, when Taylor was found to be under the influence of LSD at the time of the death, which occurred in the woman's apartment here.

Ohio perspective

By ROBERT E. MILLER

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's

new color photo driver licenses are catching on so well state officials say all the state's 8 million drivers probably will have them in three years instead of the estimated four.

About 80,000 have been processed since the licenses went on sale Jan. 2 at 208 locations in 88 counties, estimated C. Donald Curry, registrar of motor vehicles.

Many Ohioans apparently are buying them with time remaining on their existing licenses, said Curry.

The laminated licenses, sold over the counter for $5.50 each, are made available at no increase in price over the old paper licenses. They are good for four years, a year longer than the old ones and as a result actually are 50 cents cheaper, Curry said.

At the rate they are going, sales should reach about 2.6 million by the end of 1974 and "everyone should have them in three years, or a little longer," the registrar said.

Curry said his bureau is making no effort to advertise that drivers with time remaining on their licenses may surrender them and obtain a duplicate photo license for the old duplicate fee of $1.50. In the past, duplicates have been issued in cases where licenses have been lost.

"We realize a lot of people are in a hurry to get them, and we're handling them," said Curry. "We just don't want to advertise and be swamped by the masses of Ohio," Curry said.

Law enforcement officials in Ohio and other states praise the new licenses. They help cut down forgeries and other fraud involving identification, they say.

"Deputy registrars thus far have had very few problems except we have had three or four break ins by people attempting to steal the equipment," Curry said.

None of the burglars has got hold of a complete machine that would enable him to make phony licenses, the registrar said.

"We're knocking on wood," he said. Curry said deputies are instructed to render the machines inoperable during non-business hours in a secret way, and that the bureau has additional security measures under consideration.

Polaroid Corp. supplies the cameras and laminating equipment at no cost to the state. Instead, the firm collects a fee of 34.7 cents for each license processed. The license price has absorbed the Polaroid take, Curry said.

Yesterday's Cryptquote: WE DO NOT QUITE FORGIVE A GIVER. THE HAND THAT FEEDS US IS IN SOME DANGER OF BEING BITTEN.—RALPH WALDO EMERSON

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

This criminal needs to forgive himself

DEAR ABBY: Although I am in prison, I am a loyal reader of your column. Mostly because I miss sharing life with people.

At times you have expressed faith in God. Deep in the night I am restless and unable to sleep because the memory of my crime (murder) haunts me. I have sought God's forgiveness and believe that Jesus died for our sins, but I am unable to find relief from my troubled conscience.

Abby, is murder a forgivable sin? I find no reference to it in the Bible, but there is reference to an eye for an eye. If you can give me the answer, you will do much for my peace of mind. Thank you.

A FRIEND IN RALEIGH, N.C.

DEAR FRIEND: All religions endorse the concept of forgiveness to one who is sincere in contrition and repentance. It was expressed in the Old Testament in Isaiah 55:7. "Let the sinner abandon his way and his thoughts and let him return unto the Lord for He will have mercy upon him and fully for give." In fact, so strong is this feeling in the Bible it is repeated seven times in the Old Testament.

If a misdeed was committed, it can be fully atoned by paying one's debt to society and also by examining one's conscience and through self-understanding changing one's way and returning to the path of goodness. A beautiful expression of Divine forgiveness and mercy was given by Nahman of Bratslav, an 18th-Century sage: "There is no sin that will not be forgiven by sincere repentance."

To this may I add that the hardest person to forgive is oneself. God Bless.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother. She shoplifts. I know this for a fact because I have seen her in action. She takes only small things that will fit into her purse. I'm the only one in the family who knows about it. I really can't understand why Mom would steal. She can afford to buy anything she wants. Besides she picks up things she has no use for like, cheap sunglasses, and orange lipstick! She stole a can of cat food, and we don't even have a cat!

My mother and I aren't very close, so I can't talk to her about it. She'd probably deny it anyway.

It would kill my father if he knew. He is a highly respected elected government official. I am 15. Please don't use my name or town, but tell me what to do.

WORRIED FOR MOM

DEAR WORRIED: This type of shoplifting sounds like kleptomania. It's an illness and can be cured with treatment. First tell your mother what you have told me. And if she denies it, tell your father. It won't "kill" him. He'd appreciate learning it from you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HURTING DOWN DEEP IN PHILLY: Don't be ashamed of an honest emotion. There are no good losers. Only good actors.

Recession statement challenged

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — For the present at least, time and semantics protect from challenge the President's proclamation that "there will be no recession in the United States of America."

It may take six months or so for enough supporting evidence of recession to be gathered. And even then the interpretation of that data might be questioned.

A similarly strong statement couldn't have been made about the rate of unemployment, for example, because the statistics are released each month. For the same reasons it would have been unwise to make any promises about inflation.

By definition, however, a recession is two consecutive quarters of reduced output, and that means it would be sometime in July at the earliest before the complete evidence would be in.

Even that might be rushing things. The National Bureau of Economic Research is usually accorded the honor of making the declaration, and sometimes it takes its own good time about doing so.

By the time a decision is reached by the independently-operated think tank, the economy might be several weeks into an expansion, thus making the pronouncement one primarily of historic value.

Not everyone agrees with the definition either. It is possible, they note, for unemployment to rise and businesses to go bankrupt and the mood of the nation to become one of despair while production expands, if ever so slightly.

And for practical purposes, many economists make their own ruling long before the statistical evidence is in. Albert Cox Jr., a former Nixon administration economist and now chief economist for Lionel D. Edie & Co., told clients this week:

"A recession probably began in December. As it deepens and spreads, unemployment will rise, demand will shrink, and some deflationary forces will begin to work."

While Cox might be unable to prove his point on the evidence available now, he is quite sure that by July his assumption will be confirmed. This is his forecast of growth rates for 1974:

First quarter — decline in real growth of 4.7 per cent. Second quarter — decline of 1 per cent. Thus a recession, but barely.

Thereafter Cox foresees growing strength, with an expansion of 2.1 per cent in the third quarter, and a 3.9 per cent advance in the final three months of the year.

Most of the many islands in the western Pacific are of volcanic origin.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If current negotiations don't meet snags, NEC's "Monday Night Baseball" season may start early with what NBC hopes will be a big bang both for itself and Atlanta slugger Hank Aaron.

That's the report from Carl Lindemann Jr., vice president of NBC Sports. He says his network wants to begin its Monday night schedule by giving viewers a chance to see Aaron hopefully tying or breaking Babe Ruth's record of 714 home runs.

NBC's "Monday Night Baseball" was scheduled to start May 20, according to Lindemann.

But he says the network now hopes to persuade baseball officials to let NBC push the starting date up to April 8, when Atlanta plays its season opener.

"We're awfully close to it (an agreement)," Lindemann said. "We're sure trying to capture the excitement of Henry Aaron for the start of the season."

Aaron now has a lifetime total of 713 home runs.

Whether viewers would see a historic hit by him the night of April 8 hinges on whether Aaron plays — and hits one or two home runs — during Atlanta's first three games, to be played April 4, 6 and 7 in Cincinnati.

Penn Central must pay up

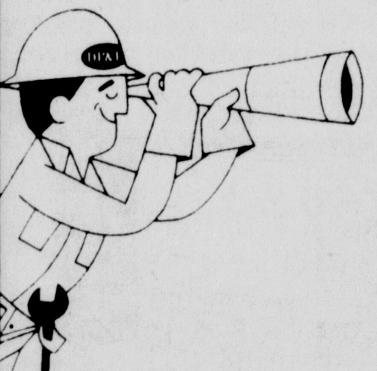

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Cuyahoga County Probate Court Judge Ralph S. Locher ordered the Penn Central Transportation Co. to pay $190,355 in back taxes to various governments here Monday.

Penn Central is $8.5 million in arrears to governments and school systems here.

Penn Central sold some of its property to the Cleveland-Cuyahoga Port Authority, but County Auditor Geroge V. Voinovich would not allow the land to be tax exempt until the railroad paid some of its bills.

The authority recently agreed to pay $2.27 million for 17.9 acres of railroad property.

Penn Central, which is being reorganized by U.S. District Bankruptcy Court in Philadelphia, has not paid a major portion of its real estate taxes since 1970 because of a court order.

Money Does Matter . . .

By J. W. Wallace

YOUR GREATEST ASSET:

A REPUTATION FOR RESPONSIBILITY!

We hear much about "responsibility" — how little of it seems to be possessed by many individuals.

When one needs money, either for a business or a personal reason, credit standing — that which determines whether or not that need is going to be met — depends upon past performance as well as present circumstances.

A reputation for responsibility and fair dealing, and for paying bills when due, is a most valuable asset when applying for any loan.

Good financial judgment and the value of personal possessions, plus earning capacity, are also important. But, perhaps the most important of all is one's reputation for "responsibility".

Congratulations to Dale Merritt for having completed 20 years as a local representative for the Prudential Insurance Company.

We wish to recognize Carl E. Krieger, of Krieger Equipment Inc., and wish him success as head of the local Allis Chalmers dealership.

We are well aware that we, too, at the First National Bank of Washington Court House must have a good reputation for "responsibility".

But, we also want to be known for our "concern" — our concern about the needs of the customers for whom we are a complete service bank!

A memory that lasts forever . . .

We're wondering if maybe we should be in the boat business instead of the flying business, with all the rain we've had. Speaking of boats, I want to take this opportunity to deny the fact that Bill is using the hangar to build an ark.

Although the weather wasn't the best, it did stay clear long enough Monday evening for Bill to start Jack Sanders on the VA commercial course. Bill and Warren Harmon spent most of the day working on the engine of one of our trainers which is being overhauled.

Tuesday, Bob Woodmansee made up for lost time, flying three hours working on his commercial license. John Woodmansee received instruction on retractable gear and constant speed prop in the Aerocommander. Joe Kingery had been trying for weeks to fly a student cross-country trip and the weather finally permitted his flight. Roy Smith was flying his Cessna 140, and Tex Guerra and Jack Sanders each flew solo practicing for their commercial license.

Wednesday and Thursday were both rainy days and very over-cast, at times. Tom Romph flew the twin-engine with Bill instructing. Jack Patton flew solo, and Jack Sanders and Bob Woodmansee took a night cross-country together.

Friday was beautiful, and we had a lot of traffic. Billy Pauley flew cross-country, and Bob and John Woodmansee each flew solo. In the afternoon, we had a real traffic jam for a while. At one time, we had a Cessna 150 from Highland County coming in to land following by an MU-2 (jet prop), a Twin Beech, and a Cherokee. The student in the 150 said he felt like getting out and pushing with the larger planes on his tail. The MU-2 brought

Fayette Pilots meet tonight

The regular monthly meeting of the Fayette County Pilots Association will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Fayette County Airport.

Jack Sanders, president, said several important business matters appear on the agenda and that is the primary reason for not scheduling a guest speaker.

Business matters include reports on the radio beacon, rotating light beacon, roadside sign and membership dues. New business will include incorporation, runway lights, airport authority, appointment of committees and preliminary plans for the annual fly-in.

Sanders said Maurice Hopkins will show a 20-minute film of World War I aircraft action following the business meeting.

Hoyt Penn flew from Wilmington, and we were glad to see Hoyt as it had been quite a while. Tony Woodfork flew from Ross County Airport on a student cross-country. Jack Sanders flew solo and Larry Soldan was flying his Cherokee Arrow. Curt Hiser flew to Marysville to attend a meeting, and Bob Smith and his son, of Greenfield, went for a flight in our Cherokee.

Bill flight tested Tim Arthur, a Madison County student, and issued him a license. Tim is the son of George Arthur, who is a partner in the Madison County Airport operation. Otis Hess received a check-out in the Cherokee 180. Louie Poole flew solo on his commercial rating, and Tex Guerra took his family and Walt Gooldin for a night flight to Urbana where they had dinner.

Saturday, Bob Wilson took his son, Jimmy, for his first ride with his Dad as pilot. He was also Bob's first passenger, since Bob received his license last week. Bob pulled a "sneaky" on Jimmy when he asked him to take a ride with him. Jimmy said, "I can't ride with you, Dad, until you've got your license." Bob kept him going for a while telling him "nobody" would know," and finally announced the fact that he now was a newly licensed pilot.

That's the news for this week. Don't forget to come see us. Visitors are always welcome.

MT 'workshop' at Bloomingburg

BLOOMINGBURG — Nearly 50 elementary teachers and educational aides in the Miami Trace School District, kindergarten through eighth grade, voluntarily attended a two-hour workshop last week in the Bloomingburg Elementary School cafeteria.

The workshop was designed with five areas of language arts serving as interest centers. The five interest centers were phonic, alphabet, dramatic, vocabulary and English and spelling. At each of the centers samples of educational aids and directions to make the aids were displayed. The cafeteria was arranged in a manner similar to a classroom situation where interest centers are totally used.

The workshop was arranged by Peggy Gass, Title I reading teacher, and June Slaughter, elementary education supervisor.

Demos see election win

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Democrats are predicting victory by at least 6,000 votes in a special congressional election here today because of pocketbook issues and, possibly, Watergate.

But Republicans hoping to retain the U.S. House seat they've held for 25 years insist the race will go their way by a couple of thousand votes out of an expected turnout of 120,000.

"We're very confident," Democrat John Murtha said Monday. The 41-year-old state legislator lost the congressional race here in 1968 by 27,000 votes against the late Rep. John P. Saylor.

"I'm winning this election," said Republican Harry M. Fox, 49, administrative assistant to Saylor, who died last October.

Weather could be a factor, and so could the truckers strike, which has aggravated the gasoline shortage.

Boosters to meet

The Miami Trace Band Boosters will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 11, in the MTHS band room.

Carl Wilt Sr. candidate for county commissioner

Carl W. Wilt Sr., Rt. 4, Washington C.H., has filed petitions with the Fayette County Board of Elections as a candidate for a seat on the Fayette County Board of Commissioners, subject to the Republican primary in May.

A native and lifelong resident of Fayette County, Wilt recently retired after more than 33 years as manager of the Moore's store in Washington C.H., and is now an auctioneer.

Wilt, 56, is a graduate of Jeffersonville High School and the Missouri Auction School, Kansas City, Mo. Besides auctioneering, he is a musician, square dance caller and entertainer and has served as an announcer and toastmaster for a number of area events.

An avid sportsman, Wilt was for many years active as a Little League, Babe Ruth and American Legion baseball manager. He is a long-time member of the Fayette County Fish and Game Association and has served in all the organization's offices. He currently is the association's secretary.

He is a member of Fayette Masonic Lodge No. 107, Fayette Chapter No. 133 of Royal Arch Masons, a member of the Central Ohio Gun and Indian Relic Collectors Association, the Fayette County Historical Society, the Bloomingburg Lions Club, both the Ohio and national auctioneer associations and collects old farm equipment and antiques. He attends the First Christian Church.

He and his wife, Hazel, who have resided on a small farm on Lewis Road for the past 25 years, are active members of the Paint Valley Kennel Club, and Mrs. Wilt operates a kennel and dog grooming shop in their home. The Wilts are the parents of two sons, Carl II, Old Springfield Rd., who is engaged in a heating, electrical and insulating business, and Jerald, a Pickaway County farmer.

"Since the office of county commissioner is becoming more demanding each year, I can and will, if necessary, devote all my time if elected," Wilt said.

Priced less than Volkswagen.

Hey, the manufacturer's suggested retail price for Plymouth Duster is actually $188 less than the Super Bug. Of course, that doesn't include destination charges, state and local taxes, dealer prep charges or optional whitewalls ($27.45) and wheel covers ($25.75) like those shown on the Duster above.

Better mileage than

Nova, Maverick, Comet, Ventura and Apollo.

Recently published results by Popular Science on tests conducted on '73 vehicles (and adjusted by them for 1974 model changes and the results of E.P.A. tests) show the "Slant Six" engine that's standard in our Duster can go farther on a gallon of gas than these five competitive models. That's something. When you add that Duster seats five people comfortably, has an electronic ignition that virtually eliminates ignition tune-ups, and plenty of trunk space... you've got to know that Duster offers you a lot for the money. Know what I mean?

Western Kentucky tops flyers, 87-83

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dayton, led by forward Mike Sylvester with 25 points, made a valiant comeback effort against Western Kentucky in basketball Monday night but couldn't hang on and suffered a 87-83 loss.

But the Flyers weren't alone. Two other major Ohio teams also ventured outside the state and jobbed home with tarnished records.

Ohio State fell victim to Big Ten foe Minnesota 56-51 for its sixth conference loss in seven games.

And Bowling Green became the latest casualty of 19th ranked Oral Roberts.

Dayton came back from a 44-40 halftime deficit to go ahead 68-62 midway through the second period. But Western Kentucky, paced by Johnny Britt with 25 points, recovered and took the lead for good with a little more than a minute remaining to play.

Dayton's record fell to 13-6 while Western evened its season mark to 9-9.

Ohio State and Minnesota never were separated by more than four points until the closing moments of the game. The Gophers stalled out the last three minutes and sank six free throws as the Buckeyes fouled trying to steal.

Dennis Shaffer scored 22 points for Minnesota, now 3-4 in the Big Ten. Freshman Larry Bolden topped Ohio State with 21 points.

Oral Roberts and Bowling Green traded the lead 22 times in their Miami Trace ended the game hitting around the 30 per cent mark while Greenfield totaled 46 per cent from the field. Leading the Tiger's in accuracy was Dunson who chipped in 10 of 12 shots for 20 of his 21 points.

The Panther frosh were led by John Bakenhester with 12 points and by Joe Black with 10.

Next outing for Miami Trace will be Thursday against Circleville on the Panthers hardwood.

Irish, Vanderbilt in narrow wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If baseball is a game of inches, then basketball is certainly a game of seconds.

For third-ranked Notre Dame and fifth-rated Vanderbilt there were just enough ticks on the clock Monday night, while Michigan State and eighth-ranked Alabama would be happy with a recount.

The Fighting Irish, once famous giant killers, nearly had their own beanstalk chopped down by Michigan State but scored the winning basket with two seconds left for a 91-89 victory.

Vanderbilt needed two free throws with eight seconds remaining to give the Commodores a 67-65 triumph over Alabama.

In other college basketball games involving Top 20 teams, second-ranked North Carolina State ran over Duke 92-78; 13th-ranked South Carolina rolled over Canisius 76-58; 17th-ranked Kansas romped over Colorado 81-66; 19th-ranked Oral Roberts outlasted Bowling Green 78-72, and 20th-ranked Maryland Eastern Shore outscored Howard 96-86.

"Michigan State will surprise a few people before this season's over," said Notre Dame Digger Phelps after the Spartans had surprised his Irish.

The Spartans, who had upset Big Ten leader Purdue 76-74 Saturday, overcame a 76-67 deficit to surge to an 89-85 advantage with 2½ minutes left Monday night.

A pair of Gary Brokaw free throws and John Shumate's basket evened matters with 1:12 left on the clock.

A minute and two timeouts later, Michigan State still had the ball and with nine seconds left, Terry Fowler tried a jumper from the top of the key which fell short.

Notre Dame came down to the other end and freshman Bill Paterno made good on a 19-foot jumper with two seconds left, allowing UCLA to remain the only team to get the better of the Irish this season. Notre Dame has won 16 times, including an earlier 71-70 victory which snapped UCLA's winning streak at 88.

Time wasn't as much on Lee Fowler's side when the Vanderbilt senior went to the foul line with eight seconds to go and the Commodores ahead 64-63.

Had he missed, there still would have been time for Alabama to get a shot at the lead.

But he dropped in both shots and Vanderbilt had its 17th victory in 18 outings.

"We have taken a giant step toward the title," said Coach Roy Skinner, whose club boosted its Southeastern record to 91 while Alabama's dropped its marks to 8-2 in the conference, 15-3 over-all. Duke, a former Atlantic Coast Conference power, is still one victory away from triumph No. 1,000 after taking a pasting from current ACC power North Carolina State.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Canton South is the lone new face among The Associated Press' Ohio high school basketball powers this week.

A statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters voted the Canton school into the No. 10 spot in Class AAA. There were no newcomers in the Class AA and Class A top tens.

Canton South has won 14 of 15 games this season for Red Ash, only two triumphs away from reaching the 600-victory plateau in his coaching career.

Otherwise, the top tens looked like carbon copies of a week ago with the top four ranked teams in each division in the same order, led by Canton McKinley in Class AAA, Wellsville in Class AA and Mansfield St. Peter's in Class A.

McKinley, with 15 straight victories, earned 306 points, 52 more than runnerup Kettering Alter, 15-0, and 108 points in front of No. 3 Springfield North, also 15-0. Fourth-place Boardman, 15-1, had 197 points.

Wellsville, unbeaten in 13 games, polled 269 points in Class AA. Akron Manchester, perfect in 15 starts, collected 251 points for the No. 2 spot.

Newark Licking Valley retained the third spot with 195 points and Ashville Teays Valley was No. 4 again in Class AA. Both are 15-0.

Mansfield St. Peter's, 15-1, had a 267-242 lead over runnerup Sebring, 13-1, in Class A. Third came Lorain Clearview, 13-2, with 157 points and fourth again was Cleveland Lutheran East, 14-1.

In Class AAA, Dayton, Dunbar was fifth, Warren Western Reserve sixth, Hamilton Taft seventh, Cincinnati Elder eighth and Cillicothe No. 9, tumbling four spots after a setback to Upper Arlington.

In Class AA, Genoa was No. 5, followed by Millersburg West Holmes, Waverly, Canton Lehman, Louisville Aquinas and Columbus Mohawk.

In class A, Sidney Lehman was fifth, Canal Winchester sixth, and Greenwich South Central seventh, same as last week. Marion Pleasant leaped over Pittsburg Franklin-Monroe in the No. 8 spot. Sugarcreek Garaway again was No. 10.

Bill Walton named tops as amateur

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Walton looked at the nude statuette symbolic of the James E. Sullivan Award and commented, "I don't know what coach would say about his form."

The 6-foot 11 All-American star of the defending champion UCLA Bruin basketball team had just been announced as winner of the award Monday as the nation's outstanding amateur athlete, the second basketball player so honored in 44 years.

"I'm not just receiving it for myself," he said. "We all understand the media tends to point out individuals. I happen to be 6-11 and red-haired so I'm the one that's picked out. 'I'd be in real trouble out there alone.'"

"Without Coach (John) Wooden I don't think any of us would be assembled today."

Walton edged runner Dave Wottle by 46 points, 1,902 to 1,856, with record-holding hurdler Rod Milburn third at 1,120. Following in order were Melissan Belote, swimmer, 761; Lloyd Keaser, wrestler, 581; Teresa Anderson, swimmer, 460; Jeff Bennett, decathlon, 444; Phil Boggs, diver, 388; David Thompson, basketball, 379; and Patty Johnson, track, 338.

He was selected to the dual post Monday by Bill Putnam.

Gophers burrow Ohio State

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—The Minnesota Gophers found a new way, for them, to scratch out a Big Ten basketball victory—with their rebounding.

The Gophers, who find themselves looking up at taller opponents in practically every game, turned back Ohio State 56-51 Monday night for their third straight Big Ten victory as 6-foot-7 junior pivots Phil Filer and Pete Gilcud led Minnesota to a 39-34 edge in rebounds.

"Gilcud and Filer certainly saved the game for us," said Minnesota Coach Bill Musselman. "I can't believe we shot only 32 per cent from the field."

"Filer and Gilcud—their rebounding and layins after rebounds was the big difference," said Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor. "And I can't believe this is the ninth game this season that we have made more field goals than the other team and still lost."

The Buckeyes, falling to 6-11 for the season and 1-6 in the Big Ten, held a 23-20 edge in field goals. But the Gophers closed out their victory with eight free

BALTIMORE (AP) — The basketball players of Maryland-Eastern Shore didn't go near an eye chart Monday, but they posted an impressive 20-20 record.

The unbeaten Hawks, who moved out of the college division ranks this season, were ranked No. 20 in this week's Associated Press poll of major college teams and then went out and notched victory No. 20.

By beating Howard 96-86, the Hawks extended the longest winning streak among major teams since UCLA had its 88-game skein halted by Notre Dame.

Farm export sales figures show price decline ahead

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An item in the Nixon budget for the Agriculture Department shows that government farm economists think prices of some commodities are due for substantial declines because of large harvests in 1974.

For the year beginning July 1, the budget called for sales to foreign countries under Title I of the Food for Peace program of $739.3 million worth of commodities, including wheat, corn and rice.

That is less than the $765.8 million for the year ending June 30. But the projected budget, while down in value, shows quantity increases for some key items, meaning that the unit prices are expected to be down.

For example: Wheat shipments under Title I in 1973-74 are expected to be 37.2 million bushels at a value of $167.3 million, according to the budget. That computes at about $4.50 per bushel.

Looking to 1974-75, the report estimated shipments under Title I — which provides for long term credit arrangements for recipient countries — will be 46.4 million bushels at a total value of $171.5 million. That figures to about $3.70 per bushel.

Those are not absolute estimates by any means, but on the surface it does show how relative prices may change as U.S. farmers move into larger harvests this year.

For corn, the current year's budget showed 9.8 million bushels valued at $27.5 million, an average of about $2.80 per bushel. Next season those sales were projected at 37 million bushels worth $83.3 million or about $2.25 per bushel.

Rice showed the largest relative tumble, based on the budget calculations. Currently, Title I shipments are put at 13.7 million hundredweight of milled rice (not the rough grain farmers sell) worth $372.8 million or about $27 per 100 pounds.

In 1974-75, the budget showed, rice shipments will be 22 million hundredweight valued at $257.9 million or about $11.70 per hundredweight.

Firemanship isn't all fires

By MARK THELLMANN

In some people's minds, a fireman is a person paid to drink coffee and smoke cigarettes all day, while awaiting the chance to rescue some acrophobic cat in a treetop.

Not so, with the men employed by the Washington C.H. Fire Department!

Along with fighting fires, (66 for the year, with an estimated monetary loss of $85,000), there were also 72 grass and trash fires to douse and 13 false alarms with which to contend.

ON TOP OF THIS, Fireman Jay E. Smith and Lt. Dave Seaman attended a 12-week course in Fire Science Technology at the Columbus Technical Institute in Columbus.

These two men spent $443 of their own money to attend the course and Lt. Seaman spent $347 of his own savings to attend classes in an earlier course; thus, $790 of firefighter's money has been spent to improve protection in the city of Washington.

ON AUG. 15, nine firemen entered a class to prepare them as "Emergency Medical Technicians." They are Lt. Bill Smith, Lt. Dave Seaman, and Firemen John Rockhold, Darrell Michael, Jim Sever, E.J. Helt, Ronnie Cox, Pat Denen and Jay Smith.

Gerstner-Kinzer Ambulance Service paid for the 60-hour course, which the men completed by passing their exams Nov. 29. They were then entitled to take the National Registry Test, which they did and all passed.

Fire Chief Joe Denen and Lt. Seaman also attended the Ohio State Fire School in 1973, at Ohio State University. Chief Denen enrolled in Fire Administration and Lt. Seaman in the Trade and Industrial Instructors course. These classes were held for eight hours a day for five days.

LAST YEAR the Washington C.H. Fire Department also had the most extensive fire prevention program in the history of the department. It reached 1,237 people during the 43

The program was presented to nursing homes, schools, factories, the Rotary Club, business organizations,

Controlling Board releases funds

By PERRY SMITH

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Controlling Board released $49,875 Monday for an "earth resource management" program for southeastern Ohio.

Southeastern Ohio legislators who sponsored the request said several Appalachian counties, particularly Harrison, depend almost entirely on the coal industry as a source of income.

Sen. Douglas Applegate, D-30 Steubenville, a member of the Controlling Board, said the grant would be the first phase of a study to determine a new economic base for the region.

"The art of reclamation using waste materials will also be studied, he said. The idea, he said, is to come up with something to sustain the area when coal is gone.

In other action, the board approved 4-2, with Rep. Frederick N. Young, R-38 Dayton, abstaining, a transfer of $34,000 to meet increased auto liability costs for state employees this year.

The issue hit a snag momentarily when Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, questioned whether all 55,000 state employees drove state cars. He noted the last program included only 38,000 employees.

A Department of Administrative Service spokesman said the premiums for this fiscal year, for the first time, included Department of Transportation employees. He said about 5,000 state vehicles were involved.

—$137,080 to the Board of Regents for equipment for technical and two-year colleges.

—Transfer of $2.2 million from one compensation fund to another for salary adjustments for civil service employees at universities.

—$261,268 for the emergency fund to the Ethics Commission for state and local officials for the remainder of fiscal year 1974.

—$742,300 to the Environmental Protection Agency for local air pollution control.

—$1.8 million transfer from Columbus Children's Mental Health Facility to Cincinnati Geriatric Center and release of another $2.1 million to the Cincinnati project.

—Transfer of $1.1 million from one Ohio Youth Commission fund to another, with $92,000 going from facilities maintenance to foster care.

Kent State jury appeal blocked

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A member of the Ohio National Guard involved in the Kent State University shootings said Monday he did not feel he would be indicted by a federal grand jury investigating the 1970 incident.

Sgt. I.C. Okey R. Flesher talked with newsmen after being questioned by the 23-member panel about two hours but declined to discuss his testimony. He said he was complying with a request from Justice Department attorneys directing the probe.

However, Flesher said that from the questions asked he did not believe he was a target for indictment.

Flesher, 35, was among the guardsmen who fired May 4, 1970, during a confrontation between the Guard and antiwar demonstrators in which four students were killed and nine wounded.

His attorney, C. D. Lambros, said earlier that Flesher was among the troops who fired because they felt their lives were in danger from the rock-throwing students, but that he fired warning shots over the heads of the demonstrators.

Motions to "dissolve, discharge and excuse" the grand jury were filed by Lambros last week on behalf of Flesher and James Pierce, a guardsman also involved in the shootings. The motions were dismissed Friday by U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti and Lambros said he was preparing an emergency appeal to the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati.

Battisti dismissed Lambros' motion for leave to appeal Monday morning and the attorney said that ended his attempt to halt the grand jury probe.

However, Lambros said that if any of his guardsmen clients were to be indicted by the jury he still could appeal on the grounds of violation of the constitutional guarantee of a speedy trial.

Calley appeal nixed by court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Military Appeals has declined to reconsider its earlier rejection of Lt. William L. Calley Jr.'s appeal from his conviction in the My Lai massacre case.

The court, the highest American military tribunal, on Monday upheld Calley's conviction and 20-year prison sentence.

President Nixon has said he'll pass final review on Calley, convicted of the premeditated murder of no fewer than 22 Vietnamese civilians and assault with intent to murder a Vietnamese child.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

Bridge is a game of infinite variety. On the great majority of hands you can get by with the so-called normal plays, but, if you really want to excel, you have to be continuously on guard for the exceptions, when special treatment is required. In short, you must not take familiar situations for granted and play mechanically.

Assume you're East and that your illustrious partner, bless him, leads a heart. You take the ace and return the nine, South's ten losing to West's jack. Your partner continues with the king and this is ruffed in dummy with the ten.

It is at this point that you have a chance to rise and shine. If you overruff with the jack — which is certainly the natural thing to do — declarer will later finesse you out of the king and wind up making four spades.

But if you are clever enough to overruff the ten with the king — certainly an unnatural thing to do — you will almost surely defeat the contract.

Let's consider the matter from South's viewpoint after he sees you overruff with the king. He will almost surely assume your partner has the jack of trumps and, whatever you return, he is highly likely to cash the A-Q in the hope of spearing your partner's jack.

It is unlikely to even occur to declarer that you could have the jack and overruff with the king — and he will almost automatically credit your partner with the jack. That is precisely the bill of goods you should be trying to sell declarer. If he buys it, he will live to regret it.

Drainage Indicates Sinusitis

Is it possible to finalize the diagnosis of sinus disease without X-rays?

Mr. F.P., Mass.

Dear Mr. P.:
X-ray examination of the skull and sinuses is never done routinely. In fact, the diagnosis made by careful inspection of the nose, the nasal secretions, and naso-pharynx are often more reliable to the ear, nose and throat specialist than are X-rays.

Drainage from the antra, ethmoid and frontal sinuses is a good index of chronic sinus disease.

A technique known as transillumination is used in a darkened room to learn if the sinuses are filled with fluid or are otherwise diseased.

In complicated cases, X-rays of the sinuses undoubtedly do give a great deal of information. These, in combination with the clinical judgment of long experience, determine the diagnosis and point the way to the ideal form of therapy.

I had a small growth the size of a bean on my face. My doctor insisted that I go to the hospital for this.

Why can't such things be removed right in the doctor's office?

Mr. J.B., N.J.

Dear Mr. B.:
Not all doctors' offices are equipped with facilities for sterile operative procedures.

In such instances, it is extremely wise not to improvise, but rather to take advantage of the known sterility and safety devices of the hospital operating room.

It is surprising how often a relatively small growth, when removed in the doctor's office, is found to be complicated, followed by excessive bleeding that requires instruments not available in the office.

Another major advantage, of course, is the fact that the tissue removed can be immediately sent down for microscopic examination.

So what about home movies? This home movie business started shortly after the turn of the century when safety film first came out. Specifications were drawn up for a 16 mm wide film, the film was made by Eastman, the machine to perforate it came from Bell and Howell. Kodak made the camera. A few years ago I viewed the first home movie ever made. It was shot by the engineer who designed the first 16 mm camera. Believe it or not, it was a whale of a lot better than many more modern films I've seen.

Then some wise guy got the idea of splitting the 16 mm film and adding another perforation between each; thus 8 mm was born. Now movies were cheap and everybody started shooting them. That was bad. Quality went out the window, and it got so the very mention of home movies sent everyone sneaking off into the night. However, there were a few who were doing really great original work with 8 mm. Then along came super 8.

With super 8 the lenses were better, film was improved, and the picture area was greater. They had moved the perforations over to the edge and put them farther apart. Now home movies were coming of age.

The next leap forward was when Kodak brought out the XL55 and the XL33 — now, dad, you could shoot movies indoors without movie lights. No squints, no blown fuses and hot lights. Now home movies were really here.

Then last summer we were called to Cincinnati for the unveiling of the new Ektasound system. This was something else. The first stuff we saw was awful! Some lame-brain from Kodak's sales department had shot the footage and it was just what you would expect. However, some of us who were there saw that there was a potential there for the lensman who wanted to make good sound home movies. Ektasound is not for the movie snapshotter. Without some help and a bit of attention to details we'll be right back where we were in the old 8 mm days.

We here at Pensyl Camera Shop are shooting Ektasound and having lots of fun seeing just what it will do. We've been shooting sound 16 mm for about 24 years now, and sound 8 since about 1961, but this Ektasound system is by far the most practical sound for the amateur. But you will need help when you start with this new system. Maybe we can help you. Come in and see some Ektasound footage and let's talk about the sound movies in your future.

There were no injuries.

Columbus police chief speaks at WCH Kiwanis Club meet

Columbus Police Chief Earl Burden, formerly of Washington C.H., gave members of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club a capsule view of the Columbus Police Department following the organization's weekly dinner meeting Monday night in the Lafayette Inn.

Burden, who rose from the rank of rookie motorcycle officer to chief in a period of 20 years, told the Kiwanians and a number of guests that only one of 100 applicants is accepted for the Columbus Police Department after successfully completing Civil Service and polygraph examinations.

He explained that prospective officers then undergo a six-month course at the Columbus Police Academy. Following study at the academy, the officer candidates are required to attend a tough military-type recruit training, followed by a guidance method of instruction that teaches the trainee to make his own decisions. After a probationary period during which the trainees are coached by a senior officer, the officer candidates are then ready for actual police duty.

Burden, who was named chief of the Columbus Police Department to replace former Chief Dwight W. Joseph, who retired April 3, 1972, pointed out that because of the women's liberation movement more and more women are applying for admission to the police training program.

THE GUEST speaker mentioned briefly that the public expects a police officer to be all things to all people and that the vast majority of an officer's time is spent on service calls rather than on investigation of crimes.

Other officers elected for the 1974-75 year were William G. Ward, vice president; Mrs. Margaret Langen, secretary, and Clarence Hackett, treasurer. Two new offices were created after club members voted to amend two sections of the club constitution. The two new offices are assistant secretary and assistant treasurer. They will be filled by Mrs. Ann Fabb and Mrs. Mary Jones.

APPROXIMATELY 60 persons attended the club's first meeting of the year. Presenting their views on offices being sought at the May primary election were Mrs. Rita Toivonen, wife of the field director for Sen. Howard Metzenbaum; Mrs. Louise Rodgers, seeking re-election as a state committeewoman from the Sixth Congressional District; James Wisecup, a candidate for state committeeman from the Sixth Congressional District; Robert Mace, who will be seeking his fourth consecutive term on the Fayette County Board of Commissioners; Laurence Dumford, Fayette County Democratic candidate for state representative from the 77th District, a post which is being vacated by Rep. Joseph F. Hiestand, of Hillsboro, and Beverly Anne Bingle, a Democratic candidate for Secretary of State.

Miss Bingle asked Democratic Club members to join the effort to open up the election process in the people of Ohio. "The ordinary citizen is locked out of the voting booth and priced out of the political market. Thousands of voters wait outside the polls on election day because Ted Brown has failed in his duty to administer the election laws, she said.

Miss Bingle, who resides in Columbus, also called for a series of vote reform laws, including statewide registration, permanent registration and longer voting hours.

Club members also announced preliminary plans for the March 18 dinner in the Terrace Lounge. Ticket for the dinner may be purchased from club officers or members of the Democratic Central Committee.

Name sheriff in findings for money

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state auditor today announced findings for recovery of $26,031 against Greene County Sheriff Russell A. Bradley and his clerk, Leorna Eaton, for improperly accounted for funds and unsupported expenditures.

Most of the unsupported expenditures came from the sheriff's Youth Activities fund, including $3,844 in checks made out to Bradley and $4,700 in checks to the clerk the auditor said.

Another $12,450 was listed as expenditures unrelated to the purpose of the fund, the report said.

The audit of the Youth Activities Fund was from Aug. 16, 1961, when it was created, through May 24 of last year.

The auditor's report also listed $5,035 as an error in depositing funds from advertising proceeds from the publication of two drug abuse manuals.

The money should have been deposited with the Greene County Treasury instead of a Xenia bank, the report said.

Bradley has maintained the money was legitimately deposited and spent.
